Production Committee's Report.

The production committee submitted the following report:

Possibly less active work has been accomplished this year by the Production Committee as a whole than in previous years. Last April, an appeal from the Manager of the Washington Division of the American Red Cross was made to this Chapter through the secretary, to assist in supplying pajamas and knitted garments for war veterans, patients in the seventeen hospitals in this division.

We called a meeting of the Committee and after authorization from the chairman of our Chapter, to expend a necessary sum of money for that purpose, decided to send 48 pairs of pajamas, and as many knitted garments as it was possible to procure, the Chapter paying for the yarn for such articles. We appealed to various organizations, and individuals, with the result that about 50 sweaters, 20 helmets and 30 caps have been promised. These garments will be shipped to the new Government Hospital at Tupper Lake and at Beacon. Also. 20 Christmas Bags for men in the service in the Canal Zone have been made and forwarded to the division.

It is indeed very gratifying to feel that our Chapter is at least lending some assistance in this wonderful work for humanity. One of the members of the Committee, Mrs. Thomas Hayes, is also engaged in production work in this community under the head of, and financed by the Red Cross. She probably will prefer to give a detailed report of her own work.

Respectfully submitted,
MAUD H. HASBROUCK,
CHARLOTTE W. TAPPEN.

Rotary Hears Plea for Negro

An Imitative Race Which Can be Made an Asset Instead of a Problem if Given Chance to Imitate the Right Kind

Mrs. A. E. Smith, witty, serious, soft-spoken, educated, golden oak colored and almost corpulent, head of the colored people's community house in Poughkeepsie, gave the Kingston Rotary Club her views on the relation of the negro to the community, at the weekly luncheon on Wednesday. Racial differences, she said, were the basis of the late war and of many industrial troubles. Races should seek to understand one another and develop a willingness to give the other fellow his chance. The negro is imitative and adaptable. He rarely becomes a pauper or a beggar. He can live in the torrid or the arctic zone and adapt himself to it. He has a big heart and a simple mind, easily led and easily swindled. He will buy anything that comes along, even a fur coat to wear in hades if it is offered on easy payments. The negro has been exploited and impoverished. But he is imitative and we should induce him to imitate good traits and fine characters by giving him a chance to observe them. This chance is denied if he is segregated. His home life is often bad because of segregation and poverty.

Work in the Poughkeepsie community house was described by the speaker who told of her Polyanna Class, pledged to do something to make life cheerful. Most of the reports were of having done something practical in the home. The speaker told of a domestic servant who was about to leave because the mistress had called her a "damned nigger." Mrs. Smith asked questions and found that the servant was at fault, had been negligent and provocative. She told the woman that she had been a "damned nigger" and appealed to her sense of justice so successfully that she mended her ways.

The speaker, who had been a teacher for a long time before entering settlement work, told how when she first began welfare work she wore a brown beaded dress at a meeting of women. At the next meeting every woman wore a beaded dress. That was the negro's imitative way. It was a lesson to her and thereafter she was careful to wear only plain working clothes.

We should learn to discriminate. We should not judge all negroes by the worst. If the good are to be treated the same as the bad we discourage progress and remove the incentive to better things. The negro must stop pitying himself and realize that only his own life and work can entitle him to better things. He must not divide his energies among many organizations and movements that differ only in trifles. He needs no more organizations. Kingston has two Methodist churches and there is talk of a Baptist church. One church would be plenty.

The tough darkey gets along anywhere, but in the South the thrifty are being driven out. They are coming north, and often when they get here they are in danger of losing their fine courtesy, their industrious habits, because they imitate the wrong kind of people. Give them a chance to imitate the right kind and they will be an asset instead of a problem.

Big Boarding House Burned

Old Bloomer House on Greenfield Road, Near Ellenville, Destroyed During Absence of Occupants—Loss, $12,000.

One of the two boarding houses of Louis Drucker, on the Greenfield road, just outside the village of Ellenville, was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon. The house stood on an elevation which made the work of the Ellenville fire department, which was summoned, of little avail and the building was burned to the ground. The building was the old farm house known as the Bloomer house. Located near the destroyed building is a large new house, which was saved. How the fire started is not known as the premises were unoccupied at the time, having been closed since the boarding season came to an end.

Flames were first noticed at the rear of the house and quickly spread. The assistance of spectators and the Ellenville firemen prevented the flames from spreading to other buildings which stood near. The loss is said to be about $12,000. The house will be rebuilt.

O'CONNELL GETS UNPOPULAR DECISION OVER DUNDEE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, Oct. 23.—Although the decision was unpopular with the large crowd that witnessed the fight, a consensus of sporting writers today approved the referee's view that Charlie O'Connell, Cleveland lightweight, won his 12 round bout with Johnny Dundee, here last night.

Dundee lacked much of his old time speed, and O'Connell landed many hard blows with his right to Dundee's jaw, while the Clevelander's long left kept Johnny from using his left hook effectively. O'Connell had the better of seven rounds. Dundee won four, while the first was even.

Court's Tribute To Hector Sears

Judge Hasbrouck Speaks Eulogistically of Qualifications of Well Known Lawyer and High Esteem in Which He Was Held.

In the supreme court Wednesday afternoon Judge Joseph M. Fowler called the attention of the court to the recent death of Hector Sears of Gardiner, a member of the Ulster County Bar, and asked that the court appoint a committee on resolutions to report at the next term of court. Judge Hasbrouck in appointing the committee, paid a high tribute to Mr. Sears, on of the oldest members of the bar.

Judge Hasbrouck said:

"I have learned with great regret the passing on of Hector Sears of Gardiner, long a practitioner of this court. Mr. Sears brought to the bar an unusual qualification. He was a soldier of the Civil War and during that time he was wounded. Many of the members of the bar remember that one of his hands was almost incapacitated from the effect of this wound in his shoulder and therefore he brought to the bar a very essential element of a lawyer. He had a profound reverence for the constitution and for the laws of his country; he brought to the bar an extraordinary sense of patriotism. He was an outstanding, careful, sound counsellor and served his clientele with faculty and with all of his ability. He lived a life devoted to duty, his family and his friends and devoted to the public welfare. I think we may all commend the life of this lawyer as being one worthy of an example to the rising generation. It is therefore a matter of satisfaction to the court to be able to comply with the motion of Judge Fowler and to appoint as such a committee, Judge Joseph M. Fowler, J. N. Vanderlyn and DeWitt Ostrander."

Five Burglaries In Ellenville

Business Places Within Small Radius Entered Tuesday Night—Thieves Secure Small Amount og Cash and Small Quantity of Goods.

Five business places in the village of Ellenville were broken into some time Tuesday night and a small amount of money taken. The Ellenville police are making an investigation. The grocery store of G. Arnowitz on Center street was entered by a rear window and the cash register carried to the rear where it was broken open. At the grocery store of Silas Van Wagener at 223 Canal street, entrance was also gained from the rear. The stock in the store was in great disorder but so far as is known a small quantity of groceries and some cash was the extent of the loot there. Samuel J. Jacobwitz, butcher, at 59 Canal street, also reported his store broken into and some change in the cash register missing. Weiner's 5 and 10 cent store was also entered but no cash secured. A small quantity of goods was missing. B. Shulman's meat market on Center street was broken into and there the thieves secured some money from the cash drawer.

All of the places robbed are located within a small radius and the jobs were undoubtedly done by the same gang who evidently worked without haste. The matter is being investigated. The total amount of money secured was small. The amount of goods taken will not be known until a complete check-up is made, but it is not thought that such loss will be large.

Shenandoah Fights Winds

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 23.—Fighting stiff north winds that had reduced her speed to 30 miles an hour, the dirigible Shenandoah, straining under a buffeting that taxed her powerful motors to the utmost, was struggling toward Pecos, over 300 miles from Fort Worth, at 11 o'clock, central standard time, this morning.

Radio communication from the ship said she would reach Fort Worth about one o'clock tonight, six hours behind schedule.

Officer Kuehn's Wound Fatal

Popular Police Officer who Accidentally Shot Himself at Legg's Mills Tuesday evening, Died at Kingston City Hospital Wednesday Night.

Policeman Augustus P. Keuhn of the motorcycle squad of the Kingston police force, died Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Kingston City Hospital as the result of accidentally shooting himself in the abdomen with a revolver Tuesday evening at Legg's Mills.

Officer Keuhn had been invited by Mrs. Grace Rogers to attend a farewell dinner to Mrs. Bertha Stahlnecker of New York city Tuesday evening as she was closing her cottage at Legg's Mills for the season with the expectation of returning to New York city and had invited a few friends in for the dinner.

While driving with Mrs. J. Kenneth Canfield of St. James street, Mrs. Rogers spoke to the officer, who was on traffic duty at the Rondout Creek Bridge, last Saturday afternoon, reminding him of the dinner to be held Tuesday.

Officer Kuehn said he had no way of getting out to Legg's Mills that evening and at Mrs. Rogers's suggestion Mrs. Canfield offered to drive him out in her father's automobile, and this courtesy was accepted.

When they reached Legg's Mills Tuesday evening Officer Kuehn and Mrs. Canfield first stopped at the cottage occupied by Mrs. Rogers. Mrs. Rogers was formerly employed at Keeney's theater and resided in this city Her husband, Clarence Rogers, is a carpenter now working at Gilboa.

Mrs. Canfield, who was not invited and had no intention of attending the dinner, stopped for a few minutes to call on Mrs. Rogers before returning to Kingston. She and Officer Kuehn entered the room and sat down for a few minutes. Officer Kuehn sat on one side of a table in the room and Mrs. Canfield across from him. She reached into her handbag to get her handkerchief and took out a small revolver which she laid on the table.

Mrs. Canfield drives the car for her father, Dr. W. E. E Little, who is called out on sick calls at all hours of the day and night, and as there has been considerable in the newspapers lately of holdups and burglaries Mrs. Canfield a short time ago purchased the gun to carry with her in the automobile.

As she laid it on the table Officer Kuehn remarked, "What have you there?" and reaching over picked up the revolver and began to examine it. As he bent over in his chair, the muzzle of the revolver pointed toward him, and in some way he accidentally pulled the trigger and the pistol was discharged.

The bullet entered the body about five inches above the navel and pierced the stomach. Word was immediately telephoned by Mrs. Canfield to police headquarters for assistance and to send a physician as Kuehn was hurt. In the meantime Frank M. Brink, who had heard of the accidental shooting, got out his automobile and Kuehn was placed in it and a start made for the Kingston City Hospital, but the auto had only moved a short distance before it stalled. Before it could be started Chief Wood, Sergeant Phinney and Dr. Snyder arrived and Kuehn was removed to another car and rushed to the hospital.

At the time the telephone call for help was received Chief of Police J. Allan Wood was at headquarters and he immediately notified Dr. Snyder, who is the police surgeon, and asked him to hurry to the scene. The chief and Sergeant Phinney also motored out to Legg's Mills and made a very thorough investigation. What they learned has been stated above, and is corroborated by a statement made by Officer Kuehn, while on his way to the hospital.

At the Kingston City Hospital, to which Officer Kuehn was removed, it was found by Dr. Snyder, who immediately performed an operation in an effort to save the officer's life, that he had been fatally wounded and there was no chance for his recovery.

Officer Kuehn was one of the most popular members of the police force and was known as an able, fearless and efficient police officer. When the motorcycle squad was organized he was assigned to duty during the summer months to handle the traffic situation in Kingston. He was appointed a member of the police force in December, 1913.

Officer Kuehn is survived by his wife, three children, three brothers, George and Edward Kuehn of this city, and William Kuehn of Gloversville, and two sisters, Mrs. Michael Fitzgerald of Peekskill and Mrs. Fred Washburn of Walker Valley.

The funeral will be held at the Holy Cross Church on Pine Grove avenue Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Interment in Wiltwyck cemetery. Friends wishing to view the remains may do so at the chapel of A. Carr & Son No. 1 Pearl street, Friday between the hours of 9:30 a. m. and 6 p. m.

"FLASHES OF THE GREAT WHITE WAY" TONIGHT.

"Flashes of the Great White Way" will be offered at the Opera House this evening. The whole show is said to punch its way across the footlights with rapid fire "knockouts." Actresses who made appearances in recent musical comedy hits on Broadway, are appearing in this offering. Saxi Holtsworth and his ten-man orchestra is a feature.

Roosevelt to Speak in Kingston Friday Afternoon

Open Air Mass Meeting on Pine Grove Avenue Opposite Y. M. C. A. at One O'Clock—Senator Bouton Also to Speak—Big Crowd Expected—Also Speaks at Saugerties.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Republican candidate for governor, will address an open air meeting on Pine Grove avenue, opposite the Y. M. C. A. building, at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. From Kingston, Colonel Roosevelt will go to Saugerties where he will speak at a mass meeting which has been called, for 2:30 o'clock that afternoon.

Colonel Roosevelt is making a whirlwind tour of the state, making many addresses each day. He is a forceful speaker and it is expected that there will be a record breaking attendance at the meeting here Friday afternoon.

State Senator Bouton of Roxbury will also speak at the mass meeting which will begin promptly at one o'clock. There will be a band to furnish music.

Gets Enthusiastic Reception.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 23.—"Be sure to come to the Capitol on New Year's day and see me inaugurated Governor."

So shouted Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Republican candidate for governor, as his special train pulled out of the Union station this morning for his swing through the Susquehanna Valley and the Catskill mountains.

Both here and at Schenectady last night the Colonel was greeted by enthusiastic crowds. In both cities he reiterated charges he made earlier in the campaign that "Tammany had attempted to get control of the state's public schools system."

"I may not be able to eliminate Tammany Hall from Fourteenth street, New York city" Roosevelt declared, "but by gracious, next winter I'll eliminate the branch office of Tammany Hall from Albany."

Nearly $500 worth of draperies in the lobby of Harmanus Bleecker Hall was destroyed by the crowd which jammed its way into the theatre to hear the colonel.

Our System Sound, Says Coolidge

Abuses Are Emphasized Out of All Proportion—To Tear Down System Under Which Progress is Accomplished Would Be Policy of Destruction.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 23.—President Coolidge replied softly but pointedly today to those of his political opponents who have been criticizing his administration for being identified too intimately with the big business interests of the country.

He made a "business speech" to a delegation of several hundred business men who made a pilgrimage to the "back porch" of the White House and in the course of it he took occasion to promise that, if elected, the business interests of the country could expect an administration that "understands business."

The president's audience was made up of members of the executive committee of the New York Business Men's Republican Association.

"You gentlemen who have come here in behalf of business," said Mr. Coolidge, "come to speak for an interest that far surpasses any other in the American community.

"This is a business country, preeminent in all kinds of business, and industry wants a business government.

"I do not mean that a government by business, nor a government for business. But I do mean a government that will understand business.

"It is not possible in a country like ours to pick business up in a gingerly fashion and set it off to one side for a careful examination as if it were something rather apart from the country as a whole."

The president entered a warm defense of "things as are."

"Our economic system," he declared, "is fundamentally sound. It has provided our people with the highest standard of comfort, the greatest security of life, that is enjoyed by any nation. It has assured us of the greatest range of opportunities that men have ever enjoyed. It does, indeed, contain some abuses. But these abuses are emphasized all out of due proportion by those who indulge the habit of expressing themselves in exaggerations.

"The primary correction of abuses lies in the hands of those who administer our commerce and industry. It is they who can prevent the necessity of government intervention. Already they have made great advances in this direction. Their sense of responsibility has made steady growth the last two score years.

"These are the lines of real progress. To tear down a system under which so much of genuine progress has been accomplished in so short a period, merely because of minor defects that have not yet been entirely eliminated, would be a policy of destruction."

Today's "business speech" was in the nature of a preparatory utterance to the principal speech with which President Coolidge will bring his campaign to a close tonight before the United States Chamber of Commerce. In it the president will go more fully into the economic policies he expects to follow for the duration of his term of office.

Republican Fund At $2,000,000

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, Oct. 23.—The Republican national campaign fund was brought into the $2,000,000 class today with announcements of additional collections in Chicago and New York.

To the $1,700,000 already reported by Chairman Butler of the Republican national committee, was added $308,812 from the New York headquarters and $158,215 from Chicago. These amounts were collected from October 11 to October 15 inclusive.

Among the large contributors were Frank W. Stearns, personal adviser to President Coolidge $10,000; William Nelson Cromwell of New York, $12,500; Frank A. Munsey, New York publisher $10,000 and Irene DuPont of Wilmington, Delaware, $10,000.

COMMITTEES TO MEET FOR ARMISTICE BALL

A meeting of the building and decoration committees, for the Armistice Ball will be held at the armory on Friday evening, October 24 at 8 o'clock. Plans for the ball given by the members of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion at the armory on November 11 are rapidly being completed and arrangements are being made to take care of the largest crowd which has ever attended this annual dance given by the Legion.

Only Theories For Explosion

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 23.—The cause of the explosion aboard the U. S. Cruiser Trenton, which caused the loss of 14 lives and injured a dozen other sailors, probably will never be known.

Navy authorities expressed the belief today that the board of inquiry appointed by Rear Admiral Newton A. McCully, now investigating the explosion, will meet a "dead wall." Any findings, they said, can be little more than guess work.

The most probable theory now advanced is that the three charges of old powder from the magazines of the Trenton "let go" when brought up to the ten inch gun in the forward turret through friction caused by contact with the hoisting apparatus.

Powder used in the big guns becomes more explosive with age, it is said, and is dangerous to handle. Navy regulations require that powder on warships be inspected daily and tests made to determine its condition.

No more deaths were reported by the naval hospital today.

Blast Kills and Entombs Miners

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 23.—Rescue workers still were digging in the debris filled shaft of the Hart Coal Company mine here today for four men entombed by an explosion late last night. The blast killed three miners and buried nine others, five of whom escaped through an abandoned shaft.

The explosion, believed caused by a "windy shot" occurred in shaft number nine, 220 feet underground, less than half an hour after the day force of 250 men had left the workings. It wrecked the fan house and tipple, jammed the cage in the shaft and left the community in darkness as it tore down high tension electric wires running near the mine.

Musical Services at St. James Church.

At the evening services Sunday at St. James M. E. Church, the Fiaja trio will present an interesting program. The trio consists of Mrs. Florence Cubberly, violinist; Jacob Mollott, cello, and Harry P. Dodge, piano. On November 9, at the evening service in the church, the Mendelssohn Club will give a musical program.

Contractor's Office.

A frame office building for use of the contractors to examine the plans during the construction of the addition to the Kingston Savings Bank building has been erected south of the bank and a fence has been erected at the front of the building along Wall street.

Traffic Problem Essay Prizes

Awards Offered Elementary School Pupils of Nation for Best Essays on Highway Safety—Fourth National Competition.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—Can children solve the traffic problem?

In connection with the fourth national safety educational campaign announced today by the highway education board, American school children are to be given an opportunity to answer the vexing question that now engages the attention of the best engineering minds of the country.

The announcement offers more than $6,500, in cash prizes and medals to elementary school pupils and elementary school teachers who submit the best essays and the best lessons in the 1924 national essay and national lesson contests. Offi- of the board are not optimistic enough to believe, it is said, that any final solution will come from the essays by children, but it is believed that a nation-wide consideration of the traffic problem will have a beneficial effect in reducing the number of accidents and fatalities on streets and highways.

The basic principle of the contest is to train children in careful conduct on streets and highways and to impress upon them a sense of personal responsibility. This contest is the fourth consecutive competition conducted under the auspices of the board, approximately one million, two hundred thousand pupils, an average of at least 400,000 annually, having participated in the three preceding contests.

All pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades are eligible to compete, whether attending public, private or parochial schools. Four hundred and eighty-eight checks and as many medals will be given for the best state essays, while three national prizes will be awarded for the three essays chosen as the best of all those to be written throughout the nation. The first national prize is a gold watch and a trip to Washington, with all expenses paid. The second and third state prizes are gold watches of relative values.

All state and national prizes in the pupils' contest are given by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which has incorporated in its safety program a plank calling for safety education in the schools. In addition to the prizes and medals for pupils, this organization offers to te the teacher writing the best practical safety lesson a check for $500 and a trip to Washington. As second and third prizes checks for $300 and $200 will be given to the successful teachers.

Pupils are requested to write essays on the subject "My Conduct on Streets and Highways," while teachers are invited to prepare practical lessons for use in the class room. Essays are not to exceed 500 words in length, while lessons by teachers may vary between 1,000 and 3,000 words according to the inclination of the teacher.

Each state is entitled to one first prize, a gold medal and a check for fifteen dollars, and to one second prize, a silver medal and a check for ten dollars. The number of third prizes, bronze medals and checks for five dollars, varies in proportion to the elementary school enrollment.

The board announces that the cooperation of educators, the women's clubs, chambers of commerce, civic organizations, automobile clubs and others, that has marked these contests in the past, is pledged for this year. Many communities, it is reported, add strictly local prizes to the state and national awards offered.

Posters and folders containing detailed information concerning the contests are being sent to all schools throughout the country, as well as to Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines, and the Canal Zone. Individual requests will be promptly answered if addressed to the Highway Education Board, Willard Building, Washington, D. C.

Brings Good and Bad Luck

There are numerous superstitions associated with the hearing of the cuckoo's first call. In the maritime Highlands and Hebrides, if the cuckoo is first heard by one who has not broken his fast, some misfortune is expected. Indeed, besides the danger, it is regarded a reproach to one to have heard the cuckoo while hungry. In France, to hear the cuckoo for the first time fasting is to make the hearer "an idle do nothing for the rest of the year," or "to numb his limbs" for the same period. There is a similar belief in certain parts of the west of England. In Northumberland one is told, if walking on a hard road when the cuckoo first calls, that the ensuing season will be full of calamity; to be on soft ground is a lucky omen.

Grease and Diamonds

In South Africa mines grease is an important aid in the extraction of diamonds. A table with a riffled top is smeared with about half an inch of grease. Concentrated ore is then passed over the table with the aid of running water. Garnet and olivine have no affinity for grease, but diamonds adhere to the greasy surface. The grease is later removed, heated, and run off, the diamonds being left in the vessel. They are then boiled in sulphuric acid, for cleansing purposes, and sorted.

AT YOUR GROCER'S!

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Oct. 23.—Ida McKinley Council, No. 65, D. of A., held a regular session Wednesday evening, October 15, and had as guests members from Kingston, Saugerties, Poughkeepsie and very large delegation of their own people. Mrs. Zuzanne Decker, the grand representative of the national council at Cincinnati, gave an interesting description of her trip there. The weather was favorable and people were enthusiastic. Mrs. Ella M. Snow of Kingston, who is deputy state councilor of the council here, was called upon and gave interesting remarks, appreciating the high honor brought to the Hudson valley by Mrs. Decker. Mrs. D. H. Kurtz presented to the representative a beautiful bead bag, made by Mrs. Myron Terpening. The presentation was worded very finely, expressing the loyalty and love of members. Mr. Maybee of Poughkeepsie addressed Mrs. Decker and in behalf of their council presented her with a pair of cut glass bud holders. There was fine loyalty shown and the unanimity with which all welcomed her was certain proof that organizations where discord and jealousy are not known and where harmony prevails, broadens, uplifts and clarifies the feminine mind and vision. Mrs. Decker was appreciative of the gifts and gave expression to that effect. The order had prepared a surprise in entertainment with Mrs. C. Hoysradt as reader and manager, named "Zuzanne's Kitchen Band." So when the gavel fell from Councilor Viola Constable's hand, friends of members were admitted to witness the "playlet," which was fine. The marching also was fine, the costumes appropriate and drum-major, Florence Coutant, was perfection, as was every member of the band. Their playing, singing and acting showed they understood their business. Mrs. Martha C. Schantz, pianist, was, as always, first class. Mrs. S. A. Van Demark, of Cornwall, was soloist of the evening, accompanied by Mrs. Schantz on the piano and Hobart Kurtz on the violin. She sang beautifully, was encored and presented with a basket of flowers by Mrs. Decker. Everyone enjoyed the pleasure of the efforts of the D. of A. The room was appropriately decorated and refreshments were served under the supervision of Mrs. Louise Sheeley and a competent corps of assistants. When good night was said all realized the order was moving onward, looking to the heights, content to abide under the shadow of the great and good.

Mrs. Egbert Van Wagner gave a grand dinner Friday evening at her home to the bride and groom to be, Miss Esther Terpening and Theodore Hudson, and maid of honor, Miss Marion Hudson, and best man, Hasbrouck Van Wagner, and the bridesmaids and ushers which compose the bridal party of the coming wedding on Saturday in Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

Egbert Van Wagner is now in Eastman's College for a business course.

The auction Tuesday at the late home of Mrs. A. J. Koons was largely attended. Articles brought good prices.

Friday evening the Epworth League held a masquerade social in the M. E. Church hall, and they had a gay time with lots of sport. Coffee and crullers were served.

Henry Van Wagner of Clinton Corner was in town a few days the past week.

Mrs. C. A. Hoysradt and daughter, Mae, were visitors in Poughkeepsie this week.

Vincent Jordon and son, Hermon Jordon, have returned from a pleasant motor trip to Elmira, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jordon.

Teacher-Gravediggers

According to an old record the duties of an English schoolmaster of 1661 were as follows: "To act as court messenger, to serve summonses, to conduct certain ceremonial services of the church, to lead the Sunday choir, to ring the bell for public worship, to dig graves, to perform other occasional duties."

Another new Victor product! Victor Bubble Books for Children

The Victor Company has purchased the patents which control the publication of children's stories on book pages which also serve as record containers. It now announces two new Bubble Books in larger, better form. Each book has three double-faced 7-inch Victor Records, bright pictures of childhood's favorite characters, with many pages of rhymed stories. When you ask for them, be sure you are shown the Victor Bubble Books.

Melodious Instrumental

Euryanthe—Overture, Part 1 (Weber) Euryanthe—Overture, Part 2	Rudolph Ganz and St. Louis Symphony Orch.	55229	1.50

Weber's Euryanthe, as an opera, has been almost forgotten; but the splendid musicianly overture remains.

Sacred Selections

Day is Dying in the West Break Thou the Bread of Life	Trinity Choir Trinity Quartet	19417	.75

The hymn—perhaps the deepest expression, in music, of the human spirit—is rarely sung so beautifully as here.

Light Vocal Selections

Somebody Loves Me (from "Geo. White's Scandals") All Alone With You in a Little Rendezvous	Aileen Stanley Aileen Stanley-Billy Murray	19454	.75

A charming fox trot song and a duet of the "heart appeal" type with excellent vocal harmonies.

Where the Dreamy Wabash Flows Follow the Swallow	Peerless Quartet Peerless Quartet	19455	.75

Popular male quartets, with comedy musical effects. Admirably sung, with bold, masculine harmonies.

Dance Records

Tell Me Dreamy Eyes—Fox Trot My Twilight Rose—Fox Trot (from "Marjorie")	Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra	19456	.75

Typical Whiteman dance numbers—unusual orchestration, interesting novelties and faultless dance rhythm.

Dreamy Delaware—Waltz June Brought the Roses—Waltz	The Troubadours The Troubadours	19458	.75

Waltzes with the desired string tone prominent. The first has celesta effects; the second bits of "Vienna catch."

Beale Street Blues—Fox Trot Boll Weevil Blues—Fox Trot	George Olsen and His Music International Novelty Orch.	19457	.75

Blues fox trots in the genuine Simon-pure, lower Mississippi manner. The second has a weird vocal refrain.

COSTS OF GOVERNMENT.

In his address to the Institute of Arts and Sciences at Columbia University, of which he is the distinguished president, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler declared that in the generation since the Civil War a new American revolution has been taking place, a revolution which he described as follows:

It manifests itself in a carelessness for liberty, and even at times in a cynical contempt for liberty, accompanied with a violent intolerance, which are in amazing contradiction to the national temper and happenings of years gone by. It manifests itself in an impatient willingness to permit government to absorb a steadily increasing control over private life and occupation, and to build up at the national capital, with smaller replicas at the several state capitals, a huge, cumbrous and incompetent bureaucracy.

Those who preach a return to the simple life would do well to preach also a return to simplified government. The American people are in need of such a return toward our earlier governmental forms and principles not only in the interests of the preservation of their liberties but in the interests of their pockets through a possibly vast reduction of taxation. Our huge and complicated governmental structure is enormously costly, the expense being no less than ten billion dollars during the single year of 1923, according to figures collected by the National Industrial Conference Board. The people have supplied and must continue to supply the money for this stupendous outlay, and unless present tendencies are checked the vast and withering cost will go on increasing year after year.

In the view of Dr. Butler this whole tendency to concentrate and elaborate governmental power is destructive to liberty and profoundly reactionary. Who can reasonably contend that he is misled in believing that the reduction of the Federal power and the simplification of government at Washington is the paramount political issue of our time?

M. Philip Hottinguer, son of a baron and distinguished financier of Paris, declares that on his way to become a student at Harvard he was stopped at Ellis Island, "put in a room with 200 on the floor without even a blanket," was not allowed to send word to his father, and on the second morning "was kicked in the back by a guard and told to get up to wait for his name to be called." There are too many of these scandalous stories for there to be no truth in them, and surely something ought to be done about it.

It appears to have been a hasty assumption that all European doors are open to our young monarch of the movies. Clemenceau declined to meet Jackie at the invitation of his doting parents, replying: "A thousand regrets. I am not celebrated enough and do not screen well enough to meet your illustrious child." It is suggested that the sarcasm may have been missed by the Coogans and that they have passed on their way convinced that the Tiger of France is a very modest old gentleman.

A collection of newspaper clippings in regard to the American visit of the Prince of Wales is said to weigh 325 pounds and to contain 61,120 items. It is asserted that not even an American President ever received so much publicity in so short a time. It might well have been added that not one ever received so much of an altogether friendly sort, there being no political party over here in active opposition to the future office-holding of the royal visitor.

Senator Wadsworth hits the nail on the head when he asks if there is any reason why a man should be penalized because he went to war and did his duty. He supports the question by also asking if a man should be deprived of recognition simply because he was a soldier. His reference was to the "Weird" cartoon picturing Colonel Roosevelt in his father's uniform, a cartoon which was resented by soldiers.

The ten-billion-dollar cost of government in this country for 1923, is roughly divided as follows: Federal, $3,459,000,000; state, $1,450,000,000, and local, $5,136,000,000. Less notable even than the figures for municipal extravagance is the fact that the Federal government, originally designed as of limited powers and activities, cost nearly three times as much as 48 state governments.

ANOTHER KIND OF HEADACHE.

When you have a headache, particularly if you always have the same kind of a headache, you are apt to think that all headaches are about the same and have the same cause.

As for your particular headache you have long since learned that if you ate certain foods at a certain time, even ate too much, or allowed the intestine to become sluggish, you could always count on a headache.

It came at the back of the head and went up to the top of the head.

Your treatment was to do without food, and clear intestine.

However you get a different kind of a headache this time.

It comes in the forehead over the eyes and you immediately are of the opinion that you are straining your eyes.

You consult your oculist and after a careful examination, he informs you that your eyes are all right and that there is really no need for glasses.

You are relieved of course, and and feel that it was just a passing pain. However it comes back on you again, and you consult your family doctor.

He asks about the location of the pain, in and over the eyes, and suggests an oculist. You inform him that you have already done so, and that your refraction is all right.

He then asks you if you have been doing any special work lately with your eyes.

You then remember that you have started a course of reading, of drawing, of special work at the office or factory, where your eyes are at the same focus for perhaps hours at a time.

The doctor explains that this is your trouble.

To bring the lesson home, he suggests that you hold your hand out, at arm's length from the shoulder elbow straight. In four or five minutes you drop it because it is tired painful.

He explains that the muscles holding the eyeball at the one focus for a long time get tired and painful in the same manner.

The treatment is plain. Change your work if possible for awhile, or else close the eyes for a minute or two from time to time.

He Kept His Date

A college student was nearly dressed for a date recently when he discovered a rip in his Sunday and only presentable trousers. He spread them on his lap and sewed the rip, but sewed them to his shirt tail and didn't know it. When he went to put them on he ripped all the buttons off his only clean shirt. He sewed thirty minutes more before he could leave his room fully dressed.—Emporia Gazette.

PLUTARCH.

Plutarch, Oct. 23.—Commencing next Sunday, preaching service will be at 2:30. All bear in mind the change in time. The minister, the Rev. R. B. Guise, will hold extra meetings during next week at 7:30 p. m. at the church. He expects to have a preacher from Malden to assist in the services. Everyone is urged to attend these meetings.

Miss Bertha Lewis entertained a number of friends in honor of her birthday on Monday evening. All had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Elliott and son Frank, have had a radio installed in their home. They have several friends stopping with them this week, enjoying the hunting season.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Auchmoody and children of near Jenkintown spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Auchmoody and family.

Mrs. Chester Stratton and daughter, Miss Blanch, Miss Grace Bush of Lomontville and Mrs. Ray Lefever of New York called on Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCormick on Monday. Mrs. Stratton will remain through the week, the rest returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kolb of Mt. Marion and Mrs. John Kolb and two daughters of Kingston, spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mackey.

The Woman's Auxiliary of Ascension Church of West Park and some invited guests spent last Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mackey. The day was a beautiful fall day and all enjoyed the ride over the roads. The trees and bushes in their fall dress were very beautiful. Those present were: The Rev. and Mrs. Richard Searing, Mrs. J. Dumond, Mrs. Lund, Mrs. Dumond, Mrs. Grover Leight, Mrs. Vincent Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ackert and son, Percy, Jr., Mrs. Richard Atkins, Mrs. Baldwin, Leslie Ackert, Mrs. Gilbert Ackert, Mrs. Thomas Rhyan, Mrs. Hudson Covert, Mrs. Caroline Gindrat, Mrs. Mackey, Mrs. Otis Rhyan, Mr. and Mrs. William Yesse, Mrs. Schickle, George Hasbrouck, Mrs. Chester Elliott, Mrs. Fred Norman, Parker Benedictine, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Richter, E. Enlund, Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mackey and Charles Paulson. At one o'clock all were invited to the dining room where a bountiful dinner had been provided. Everyone did ample justice to the good things that had been provided. A vote of thanks was tendered the host and hostess for the pleasant time. At four o'clock all departed to their homes, voting Mr and Mrs. Mackey royal entertainers and, wishing they might be asked to come again soon.

Blame for Failure

Every man is the architect of his own fortune. If successful he seldom fails to claim full credit. If unsuccessful he, too, blames the other fellow. But the rule works both ways, for every man who fails is in some measure responsible for his misfortune.—Grit.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

AGRA'S KITTENS

Agra was a very proud cat and why shouldn't she be proud, she seemed to say!

She had three beautiful kittens, the dearest little black, soft, furry kittens. One was named Hannibal and one was named Nero and the third was named Angelica.

Agra had not named her kittens herself. Her mistress had named them, and where she had found such splendid names Agra didn't know.

In fact her own name was a most unusual one, too. She liked to hear her mistress call the kittens by their names. But they came to their mother cat without being called by any names at all.

That was right they knew, for it didn't matter what their mother called them. They were her own dear little kittens. They didn't always go to their mistress when they were called, but when they were picked up gently and petted they were very sweet and seemed to enjoy being petted.

The three kittens were five weeks old and they played about the house and had the best time in the world.

But most of the time they enjoyed sleeping. And they knew the nicest bed of all.

Their mother would lie down on a soft rug in the center of the room and the three kittens would lie quite close to their mother and rest their little heads on her soft, furry body.

Oh, that was a wonderful bed, the most wonderful bed in the world.

The kittens knew that.

Their mother's fur was all black except for a little patch of white upon her throat, and though the fur of the baby kittens was not so shiny black as their mother's was, she had told them it would look the same way before very long.

She Had Three Beautiful Kittens.

It was very pretty fur even though it was not so shiny black, their mother thought. Yes, each of them had such a pretty coat. And each little kitten, too, had a white patch upon the throat, too.

They were so pleased to look so much like their mother. They had already heard people say:

"How much like their mother they do look," and that had pleased them enormously.

Their mother wore a little narrow green leather collar about her neck which was most becoming to her, but her mistress said that while Agra could wear a collar, the little ones would only be bothered and annoyed by such a decoration.

They were too young to be so dressy.

Their mother's eyes were a beautiful greenish-yellow color while theirs were more of a blue shade.

Their mother liked to lie out-of-doors in the warm sunshine and there, too, the kittens followed her.

Then she liked the warm stove, and there, too, the kittens followed her and curled up by her as she slept under the beautiful stove warmth.

"You are very beautiful, my dears," Mother Agra said. "When you are eight weeks old, two of you are going out to seek your fortunes.

"But it will not be hard, for you will have your homes. One of you is to be the pet kitten of a doctor and while you do not need to study medicine yourself you will say to people, if they ask you what you expect to do when you grow older:

"'I am to be a doctor's helper and assistant.'

"For you will help by your comfort and your society.

"Another of you will go to be the comfort and helper of a business man and when you are asked what you will do you will say:

"'I am going into business, I am.'

"And my third kitten is to stay here with me. That is what the mistress has said."

And the little kittens dreamed of their future lives and Mother Agra was very happy, for her three kittens would be well looked after and one of them by their own mother. In the meantime they would stay with her for a few more weeks. While they were so very young it would not be wise to have them leave her and the mistress knew that.

Oh yes, Agra was a very proud and happy cat.

Birds Lay Eggs

The teacher had been giving a class of youngsters some idea of proverbs, and after the lesson she put a few questions.

"Birds of a feather—do what?"

"Lay eggs," piped a small boy before anybody else had a chance to speak.

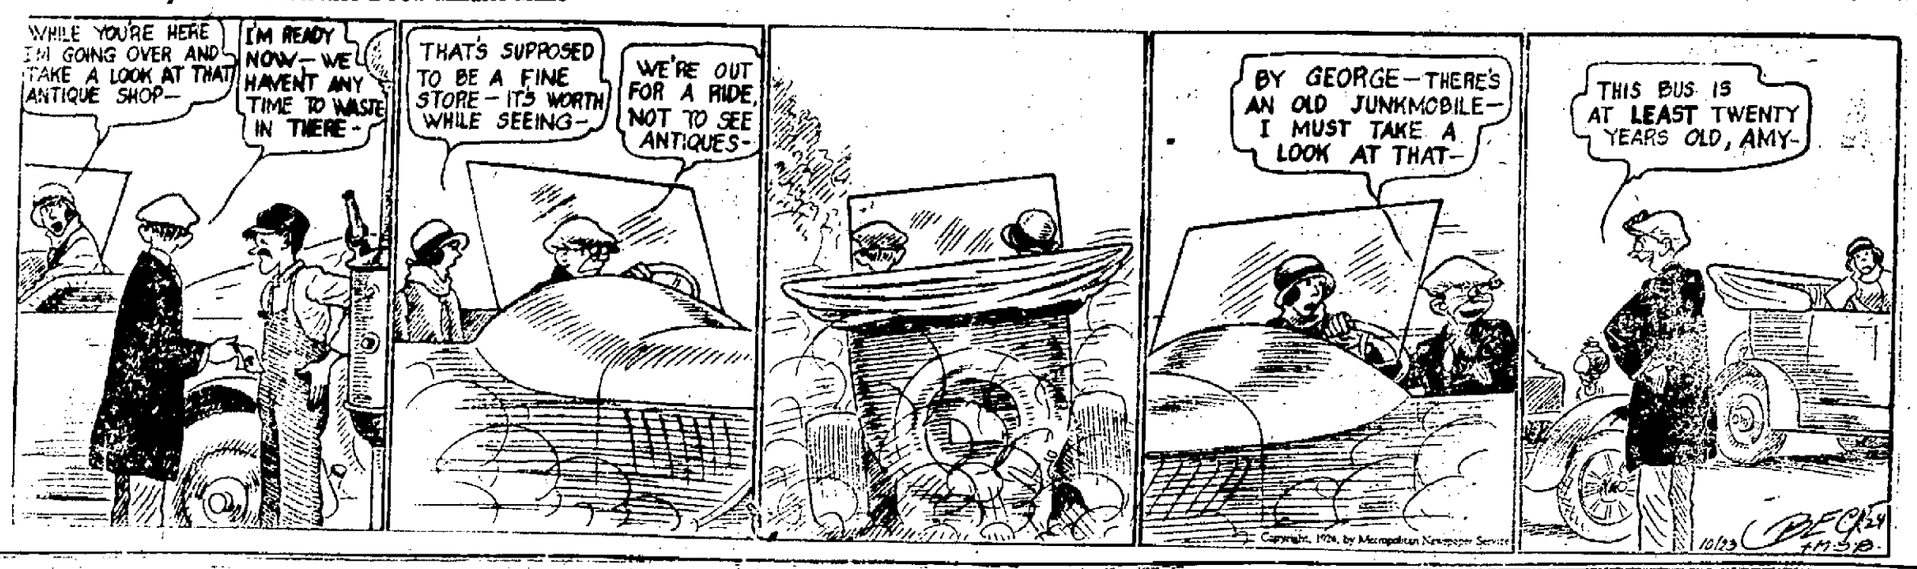
GAS BUGGIES—Funny What a Difference a Few Minutes Make



The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

Industry, economy, honesty and kindness form a quartet of virtues that will never be improved upon.—James Oliver.

FOR AFTERNOON TEAS

Sandwiches of various kinds are always acceptable with a cup of tea.

Cheese with chopped olives between thin slices of buttered bread, toasted just before serving, is one that is well liked.

Raisin or nut bread with guava jelly and cream cheese, chopped cooked figs and cream cheese between slices of buttered bread are all good.

A dainty bit of bread to be served in various ways is prepared thus: Cut fresh bread very thin, spread it with butter, anchovies, caviar or any highly flavored and liked paste; roll up to the size of the little finger, use a wooden toothpick to skewer and lay them in a pan and toast in the oven. Served hot or cold. Very nice with bouillon or with a salad.

Toasted Bacon Rolls.—Split crisp, tender, oval-shaped rolls and toast delicately. Place three pieces of crisp well-cooked bacon between the halves of each roll.

Hot Deviled Eggs.—Cut hard-cooked eggs in halves lengthwise. Remove the yolks, mash, add half as much grated cheese or deviled ham, chopped cooked chicken, chicken livers, or veal. Moisten with melted butter or mayonnaise, season highly with salt, pepper, lemon juice or mustard. Refill the whites and place two halves on a slice of toast. Cover with boiling-hot white sauce and serve at once.

Fruit Salad.—Fresh pears with sections of orange and grapefruit free from membrane is a most delicious combination; serve with Golden Dressing.—Take three tablespoonfuls of orange juice, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one-half cupful of sugar, a few grains of salt, all heated in the top of a double boiler. Add one egg slightly beaten, and cook until smooth and thick. Cool, and just before serving add one-half cupful of cream beaten stiff.

Pears cut into sections and combined with very ripe tomatoes also cut into sections, served with a mayonnaise to which a few spoonfuls of cream cheese has been added, is a very tasty salad.

PALENTOWN.

Palentown, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Sarah Dymond, who has been visiting relatives in Newburgh and Kingston, has returned home.

Willie Rose and family of Sundown and Mr. and Mrs. John Feltman have been spending a few days with relatives in Delaware county.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Barringer, who were recently married in Pennsylvania, are spending a week with their many relatives in this place and Samsonville. They spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Barringer, where a skimmington was given them. Elmer Barringer and family were there also. Victrola and accordeon music was enjoyed by all. After refreshments the merrymakers departed for their homes, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Barringer a happy married life.

Mrs. Harry Conner of Bloomingdale, N. J., is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Alfred Palen, who is ill.

Mrs. Ella Miller and family have moved in the house of Eli Coddington.

Ira Bell has moved his household goods to the house of Jacob Miller where they expect to spend the winter.

Orval Bell and wife of Rochester Center spent Sunday with Norman Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dymond had supper with Mr. and Mrs. V. Barringer on Saturday night and attended the dance at J. M. Lennon's.

Horace Dymond and family have been entertaining a number of their relatives from distant places. Among them was Mr. Dymond's brother, Jacob, of Broome county, who has not been in this place before in twenty-two years.

Will Feltman and Will Dymond assisted V. Barringer in threshing oats on Wednesday.

Everett Brammen and Norman Bell made a business trip to Kerhonkson on Monday.

Work in Communities Increases

The home service of the Red Cross was the most pressing duty of 2,609 Chapters, an increase of 152 communities where problems affected by the war veteran's condition required solution through immediate and intelligent assistance. The Chapters alone expended some $2,000,000 in this work

The transient disabled soldier, usually suffering from disability or tuberculosis, is almost everywhere a grave problem. From national funds the past year $173,076 36 was expended in helping the Chapters to care for these wandering men.

According to government report there are 4,800 veterans in civilian institutions, and in the national homes for soldiers the complications are increasing The large groups of patients whose claims have been disallowed, of veterans of foreign wars, and the great number of men permanently resident in these institutions call for Red Cross work which can not be avoided nor denied

Definite Service to 73,700

Of a total of 84,500 ex-service men in hospitals and other institutions 73,700 were rendered a definite and specialized service by the Red Cross. In a single month 4,185 new cases were presented and a total of 20,125 was acted upon—figures which serve to illustrate the magnitude of the information and claims service engaging the attention of Red Cross workers New veteran legislation amending the War Risk act which extends many additional rights to disabled ex-service men will reopen thousands of cases and require still greater Red Cross service

When Congress granted a charter to the American Red Cross it charged the organization with the duty to act as "the medium of communication between the American people and their Army and Navy This responsibility to the enlisted men and their families is met every year without restriction.

Serves Men on Active Service

The extent of this Red Cross activity during the last year embraced a total of 195,246 cases There were 36,995 separate soldiers' and sailors' claims; 20,316 investigations of home conditions, 11,421 cases related to discharges, furloughs, etc Assistance was given in 39,688 instances for personal, business or family problems; 744,220 visits were made to the sick or disabled, and nearly 40,000 letters and telegrams dispatched to the homes of enlisted men.

From June to September at the numerous military training camps the Red Cross provided information and home service to the trainees, also instruction in First Aid and Life-Saving. The entertainment and recreation events at the various Army and Navy hospitals reached nearly 9,500 during the year, and occupational therapy in nine Naval hospitals gave constructive and beneficial results and occupied the time of patients in the making of useful and ornamental things.

EVANGELIST MUIR TALKS ON POLITICAL RULERS

Increasing interest is being shown in the Muir evangelistic campaign at West Camp Lutheran Church. Already large delegations have been present from Malden, Saugerties and Andes On Tuesday night Prof. R. E Kauffman of Dayton, Ohio, arrived to direct the music and a large choir gathered to assist Evangelist Muir preached on "The Crisis of the Hour," from the text, "The hour is come" Among other things he said that "the time has come for the New York state electorate to decide whether or not this state is to continue to be run by a foreign ruler or by a pure American" He made a strong plea for law enforcement and urged the raising of high ideals to counteract the influence and propaganda of the bootlegger He declared that "Jesus Christ is the only hope of the world Let us march on with the hosts of the Redeemed who have been purchased with shed blood towards that Gloryland from which there is no return." Services are held every night but Monday at eight o'clock

The Reward of Service

The successful record of the Management of the Central Hudson System during the past twenty-four years is due in a large measure to:

1. The persistent effort to merit a greater volume of business by rendering a thoroughly satisfactory service.
2. The ability to handle the resulting heavy increases efficiently and at comparatively low operating costs.
3. The successful development of a unified power system serving a wide territory and making available to smaller communities a standardized and reliable service.
4. Financing through Customer-Ownership, which has afforded a sound investment opportunity beneficial in the upbuilding of local communities.

In this progressive development, the Management has had the approval and financial backing of the public, and you are invited to become one of the many partners in the enterprise.

Majestic Shoes have been sold satisfactorily for over thirty years in our chain of family shoe stores to increasing numbers of people—not always at the same price during these thirty years, but always with the same sterling quality of materials. We have consistently "kept the quality up." We have always paid a higher price for soles than is called for in the average shoe selling at this price We have done this simply that the longer wearing qualities, which result would bring you back for another pair. That this policy is wise is plainly shown by the splendid yearly increase in our sales of Majestic Shoes

Employment and Wages Improve

National Board of Survey, Says Everything Points to Slow But Steady Improvement—Employment 5 Per Cent Higher Than in 1914.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Oct. 23.—Everything points to a slow but steady improvement in industry, says the National Industrial Conference Board. The latest survey of wages, hours and employment in twenty-three leading manufacturing industries, covering the month of August, shows a definite upward tendency in the number employed and in the average of hours of work per wage earner.

The rapid curtailment of industrial and business operations in the spring, together with the cautious hand-to-mouth buying for immediate needs through the summer has apparently decreased inventories to that point where public needs for consumption are producing better conditions.

Employment from July to August stood at 71% of the number employed in June, 1920, but, as the board points out, comparisons of present conditions with those of a boom period are often misleading and the present conditions reflect a fair course of normal progress. Employment is at least 5% higher than it was in 1924. Further evidence of improvement is shown in an increase of nearly one-half hour in the average week worked per wage earner and of more than an hour in the average hours of plant operation from July to August.

It is a remarkable fact that in spite of an industrial depression of some severity, with very few exceptions, wage rates have maintained the high levels which were reached in the boom period of last year. Although average hourly earnings of all wage earners dropped 3 cents in August over July, they still remain 127% above the level of July, 1914, and not far from the level of a year ago. "Real" earnings declined slightly between July and August due to increase in living costs, the purchasing power of hourly earnings falling from 41% to 39% above the July, 1914, level. The board's monthly survey of the cost of living shows very little change for the month, August 15 to September 15, the principal changes being a 2% increase in food and 1% decrease for clothing. The cost of living has decreased 20% since the high peak of July, 1920.

Further evidence that industrial conditions are improving is found in a summary of wage changes throughout the United States during the month ending October 14, made by the board which reveals forty increases and six reductions.

Old Friends Are Found Among "New" Fabrics

Among the "new" fabrics for fall some are new and some are not. Some are very old friends with entirely new names. There are some also which are old friends, but so changed is their appearance that for a moment we seem to have merely a bowing acquaintance, until we examine them more closely. But whatever the appearance of the material we are sure to find on touching it that it is always softer and more pliable to the touch.

We seldom hear anyone say anything about blue serge now. It goes by a half-dozen different names, and, while it has lost none of its warmth, it seems much more closely woven, and is decidedly lighter in weight. Other weaves, like wool reps and wool crepes, have divided honors to some extent and tricotine has also appeared in the one-piece frocks that used to know only serge.

What is said of serge is equally true of the materials of suede-like surface. One seldom hears the word "duvetyn" any more and in reality there is very little of that fabric, as we knew it, seen anywhere. But some of the new fawn-skin fabrics show about a hair's breadth of change from duvetyn; they are thinner, lighter and more supple, while losing none of their warmth. Certainly there are all kinds of fabrics for coat and frock in the pile kinds, but that pile is not so high and not so thick. It looks as if it might have been clipped down and smoothed off. Even where there are checks or cords in the material the blocks do not rise so high from the surface, except in some of the sports materials.

METAL CLOTH AND THE EVENING COAT

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

For some reason, which cannot in all events be blamed upon the weather, the season has gotten under way much earlier than usual. Fur evening coats have even appeared, and many wraps which are clearly fresh from the shop are being worn. Here is one of them, for, of course, designers are not going to pass by an opportunity of adding ruches and ruffles to coats which are permitted the elaboration of an evening wrap.

Among the materials which are added to an already long list available for formal wraps, is moire metal cloth. It is a rather gorgeous fabric for the simple pleasures of life, but not too regal for the opera or play. Metal cloths are firmly entrenched in the affections of women who like to be as radiant as possible, which is reasonable, considering the gayety of the night life of New York, let us say—a gayety which, we are told, is unequalled anywhere in the world.

Bright velvets have always made an appeal to women who like value. They are warm and certainly durable, but these are minor considerations on these nights of steam-heated limousines and taxis.

Abundant fur handings and much fluffiness, often resulting from the substitution of feathers for fur, are outstanding details of the modern wrap, which we have been sufficiently drilled to know must have some sort of kinship with the dress with which it is to be worn. Evening coats need no longer cover the gown therefore, indeed they are much smarter when ending somewhere about the knee—not that the frock beneath is much below.

MOTOR VEHICLE LAW

By Charles A. Harnett
Motor Vehicle Commissioner.

MOTOR TRUCKS AND TRAILERS.

Q.—Does the law limit the size of motor trucks or trailers which may be operated on the public highways of the state?

A.—Yes. The maximum width of the body, inclusive of the load, is 8 feet. The maximum combined weight of truck and load for a four-wheel truck or trailer is 28,000 lbs. The maximum combined weight of truck and load of a one-wheel trailer is 11,200 lbs. If the weight on one wheel is more than 5,600 lbs., the minimum distance between axles must be 8 feet. The maximum weight allowed per inch of tire on any one wheel is 700 lbs. In any case, authority to operate a motor truck or trailer in excess of the prescribed limits and dimensions may be secured in emergency cases upon written permission of the State Commissioner of Highways.

Q.—How is the width of rubber tires ascertained?

A.—For hard tires, by measuring the width of the tire base channel or between the flanges of the metal rim. For pneumatic tires, by measuring the greatest width of the tire casing.

Q.—How is the width of metal tires ascertained?

A.—By measuring the width of contact of the tire with the road surface.

Q.—What is the minimum thickness required in a rubber tire?

A.—One inch of rubber above or beyond the top of the metal flange or rim of the wheel.

Q.—Where shall the number plate be displayed on a trailer?

A.—On the rear of the trailer.

Q.—Where must the weight and capacity of a motor truck or trailer be displayed?

A.—By a metal plate or by legible painting the following information:

The weight of the vehicle in pounds.

The manufacturer's rated capacity in pounds.

The gross rate in pounds.

Q.—What must an inspector do upon discovering a motor vehicle loaded in excess of its capacity?

A.—In case of over-loading, the inspector must cause to unload, on the side of the road or at the place where the motor vehicle was weighed, the amount of the over-load in excess of 5 per centum of the allowable load. He may place the operator of such motor vehicle under arrest, for such violation the registration of the motor vehicle and the license of the driver may also be revoked or suspended.

"Do The Day's Work" Has Been Motto Of Calvin Coolidge During His Whole Career; He Sticks Close To His Job

When Calvin Coolidge was Governor of Massachusetts one of his utterances often since quoted, was "Do the day's work." Since the tragic death of President Harding Mr Coolidge has given the country and the whole world an example of practicing what he preaches. He has done the day's work every day, even if he had to work far into the night to do it.

The only vacation the President has had this year was a short trip to his native village of Plymouth Vermont, where he visited his father. The arduous business of being President of the greatest country in the world makes necessary some rest and relaxation a change from the terrific grind that was mostly responsible for the death of President Coolidge's predecessor.

The President has stated publicly that the business of being President will take too much of his time to permit of making a campaign. The Republican National Committee under the leadership of William M Butler of Massachusetts will do that. Mr Coolidge, except for his brief visit to Vermont, is staying on the job in Washington, doing the day's work.

The picture above shows the President and Mrs Coolidge with their son John, as they left Washington for the short respite from work and the heat of a Washington summer. The President was snapped by the photographer just as he was waving a farewell to the crowd gathered at the station to see him off.

His vacation was spent in hard work, but work of another sort. Much of the time he wore overalls. He gets his exercise with a plow instead of a set of golf sticks. He is on more intimate terms with a pitchfork than a polo pony.

Mrs Coolidge's face is shaded by her hat in the picture taken with her distinguished husband and her son. The other picture gives an idea of the attractive First Lady of the Land, whose charm and tact have captivated Washington. Before her marriage she was Miss Grace Anna Goodhue, of Northampton. She married Calvin Coolidge October 4, 1905, when he was a young lawyer practicing in Northampton.

To Decentralize Veterans' Cases

The final set-up in the decentralization of District No. 2 of the United States Veterans' Bureau will be affected this week, when the complete regional office set-up will be placed in operation at Hartford, Conn. Approximately 10,000 cases will be decentralized to the Hartford office immediately. Following closely upon the decentralization of cases to Hartford will come the shipment of folders and the setting up of regional offices in Newark, Buffalo and New York city.

This decentralization movement involves the handling of nearly 150,000 folders. The clerical and administrative details have all been worked out by a committee under the direct supervision of Middletown E Read, district manager, and plans for the final decentralization are complete. Eighteen additional employes have been ordered to report to the Hartford regional office, Friday of this week, and additional employes will be assigned the other regional offices as the offices are placed in operation under their regional set-up. The additional employes who have been assigned to the regional offices are from the district office, and are trained in bureau procedure and policy.

Under each regional office will be a claims and rating board which will carry out the policy which General Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau established some time ago, namely, "taking the Bureau to the Veteran."

Two Cars in One—

An open and closed car combined

STUDEBAKER Duplex—a closed and open car combined. An entirely new-type car—developed by Studebaker and available from no other maker.

It is the most sensational—most talked-of car in America.

One minute you are enjoying the comfort and protection of a closed car—next the unhindered freedom that made the open car so popular. And the change can be made in 30 seconds by simply lowering the roller side enclosures.

Yet with all this two-fold convenience, the Duplex-Phaeton sells for no more than an open car.

The new Studebaker Big Six is strikingly beautiful—with long, low sweeping lines. It is especially designed and powered for seven-passenger service.

The Big Six Duplex-Phaeton is delivered to you with complete equipment. This even includes two highest grade bumpers, extra balloon tire, tube and tire cover—there is nothing else to buy.

But to appreciate this car you must inspect it—drive it. Test its delightful ease of operation—steering mechanism especially designed for its full-sized balloon tires.

Notice the new location of the light-switch on the steering wheel—and many other new and unusual features.

Morris's Essay Wins $500 Prize

Myron J. Morris, for several years connected with the bureau of claims of the New York City Board of Water Supply, and secretary of that board, with his office at 293 Wall street, Kingston, has been awarded a prize of $500 for writing an essay on how to reduce automobile accidents. While in Kingston Mr. Morris resided at No. 25 Janet street. He is now treasurer of Joseph S. Blume & Co., insurance brokers, 80 Maiden Lane, New York city.

Several months ago the Independence Indemnity Company offered three prizes, of $1,000, $500 and $250, respectively, to those who would present the best papers on how to reduce automobile accidents. Several hundred papers were received from forty-six states, besides Canada, Hawaii and Panama. The company appointed as judges in the contest Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright of New York; Gen. Butler, head of the Philadelphia police department, and W. H. Cameron, general manager of the National Safety Council.

The judges awarded the first prize to Edwin T. Herbig, of Cleveland; the second to Myron J. Morris, a New York insurance man, and the third to Clarence T. Hubbard, assistant to Vice President Charles H. Remington, of the Aetna Life and affiliated companies at Hartford.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius.

Saved by Confession.

"Doin' any good," asked a curious individual looking over the rail of the bridge.

"Any good?" answered the fisherman below. "Why, I caught forty bass out o' here yesterday."

"Say, do you know who I am?" asked the man on the bridge.

The fisherman replied that he did not.

"Well, I'm the fish and game warden."

The fisherman, after a moment's thought, said:

"Say, do you know who I am?"

"No," replied the officer.

"Well, I am the biggest liar in the country."

George—And he doesn't act like one, either.

"Oh, dear," complained Mrs. Featherly, "when a short woman like me hangs out wash, she needs arms like a giraffe."

Bluebeard smiled as he opened the closet door and saw the bodies of his former wives hanging by their gory tresses. Then he snarled as he took a look at his next prospective victim.

"Curses," he screamed. "She's got got her hair bobbed."

After All—

Oh, I have eaten all my cake,
And now may have it not,
But its delicious frosted taste
Will not be soon forgot.

Yes, I have eaten all my cake,
And licked up all the crumbs,
So now must live on bread alone,
Whatever goes or comes.

But oh, the cake was good to see,
And it was sweet to taste—
And had I hoarded it, who knows—
It might have gone to waste.

The DAIRY

SUDAN GRASS MAKES VALUABLE COW FEED

That sudan grass makes an acceptable substitute for alfalfa when the latter cannot be had is shown by the results of a recent feeding test with dairy cows at the Fort Hayes branch of the Kansas experiment station. Two lots of four Holstein cows each were fed through three twenty-day periods with ten-day transition periods between each of the experimental periods. During the first twenty-day period one lot was fed alfalfa hay and the other sudan grass hay. The hays were reversed for the two lots during the second twenty-day period and again during the third period. In addition the cows received thirty pounds of kafir silage daily and a grain mixture in proportion to their production.

When the cows were fed alfalfa hay they produced 2.8 pounds or about 13 per cent more milk than when they were fed the sudan hay. The weights of the cows showed no significant changes as a result of the change in rations. The cows seemed to prefer alfalfa to sudan as there was less waste of the alfalfa hay. Their production, however, did not fall a great deal when sudan hay was substituted for alfalfa.

Sudan grass is used a great deal as a hay and pasture crop in Kansas and the southwest. It withstands a dry summer much better than most forage crops. It is a very useful emergency hay crop in the corn belt. Under Iowa conditions fifteen to twenty pounds of seed per acre are used and the crop is seeded in early June. Farmers who have no hay ground this year can make very good use of sudan grass. Yields are from one to two tons per acre.

Flies in Summer Cause Considerable Annoyance

Flies cause considerable annoyance to dairy cows during the summer and not only does the irritation caused by these flies tend to lower milk production, but the restlessness of the animals is a frequent cause of inefficient milking. A good fly spray can be made from 4½ quarts of coal tar dip, 4½ quarts fish oil, 3 quarts coal oil, 3 quarts whale oil and 1½ quarts oil of tar. Dissolve 3 pounds laundry soap in water, add ingredients of the spray and bring the whole up to 30 gallons with lukewarm soft water. This spray is guaranteed to keep off the flies and prevent the coats of the animals from becoming harsh, according to agricultural extension department specialists at Iowa State college.

Spray twice a day, in the morning after milking and in the afternoon when in the barn for silage or green food. With a portable cart, made from a half barrel with wheels attached, and a spray pump and nozzle, two men can spray 40 cows in five minutes. Thirty gallons of this mixture will spray 40 cows twice a day for ten days at a cost of one cent a cow a day.

Watch Cream Separator to Save All Butterfat

Cream separators that have not been tested for some time may be cheating their owners out of considerable butterfat every time they are used, warns C. A. Iverson, of the dairy department at Iowa State college. This is an avoidable loss which can be prevented by testing the skim milk and then regulating the separator to skim more closely.

Farmers who have the apparatus for the Babcock test can test the skim milk at home. A double-necked test bottle should be used and 20 cubic centimeters of skim milk used instead of 17.5 cubic centimeters as in the case of whole milk. Farmers who cannot do their own testing can have it done by their local creamery or can send a four-ounce sample to the dairy section at Iowa State college. A charge of 10 cents for the testing is made by the college.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

NEW YORK'S FIRST PAPER.

The first newspaper in New York was the New York Gazette, which made its appearance October 23, 1725, or one hundred and ninety-nine years ago, with William Bradford as its publisher.

Bradford, the forerunner of Greeley, Dana, Bennett, Pulitzer and Hearst, had been a printer in Philadelphia, but, owing to disputes with the authorities, he removed to New York from the city of Brotherly Love—where he found himself unloved. He had already passed the Biblical three score and ten when he founded the Gazette—which was a weekly. He was the first newspaper publisher to offer premiums to subscribers as an inducement. The Gazette was the first official government organ of New York and the mouthpiece of William Cosby, the governor of the province. Bradford soon had a rival in the New York Journal, which was founded in 1733, by John Peter Zenger. The later attacked the government and became defendant in the first libel suit instituted in America. Bradford continued as editor of the Gazette until 1742, and was succeeded by James Parker, who changed the name of the Gazette to "The New York Gazette, or Weekly Post-Boy."

MRS. SUSAN CROMWELL

Youngest daughter of Thomas Cromwell, Esq., the great-grandson of the Protector, and the last of his descendants to bear that famous name, died in February, 1834. The father of this lady, whose grandfather, Henry Cromwell, had been Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, spent his life in the modest business of a grocer. His own father had been born at Dublin Castle. The family of the Lord Protector, Oliver Cromwell, was considered a "good" one, his uncle and godfather possessing estates in Huntingdonshire which were afterwards worth 30,000 pounds a year. The protector's mother, by an odd chance, was named Stewart, but claimed no relationship to the royal family.

The race, originally Welsh, bore the name of Williams.

The Parachute.

The first descent from a parachute was made 127 years ago yesterday, October 22, 1797, by Jacques Garnerin, a French aeronaut. The invention of the parachute was due to the experiments of Sebastian Lenormand, a famous French scientist, some fourteen years before Garnerin used the contrivance. It seems humorous to us in these days of round the world flights and 200 mile an hour speed tests, but to leave the ground at all in those days was simply considered to be inviting instant death. The parachute looked like an immense umbrella, and was suspended below the balloon. The gas bag ascended until it seemed a mere speck in the sky, a groan of horror went up from the thousands of spectators when at last the brave pioneer aeronaut was seen descending, for he shot downward like a bullet for some time before the parachute finally opened. Garnerin landed safely, almost on the spot where he had ascended from, none the worse for his exploit. For weeks he was the hero of Paris.

Normal Buys Piano.

The New Paltz Normal School has purchased a Sohmer parlor grand piano of Frederick C. Winters, the Clinton avenue piano dealer. Tuesday evening it was officially used for the first, when Miss Elsie Baker, of victrola fame, gave a song recital, accompanied by Grover Tilden Davis, who also gave several instrumental numbers to the delight of a large and appreciative audience. Miss Baker and Mr. Davis were so pleased with the instrument that they placed their autographs on its gilded iron plate.

Dedicate Rochester Church.

The dedication of the Rochester Reformed Church will take place on Wednesday, October 29. A program for the afternoon and evening is being arranged. In the afternoon the service of dedication will take place. The Rev. Milton J. Hoffman, D. D., president of Central College at Pella, Iowa, will preach the dedicatory sermon. Many of the former pastors of the church will be present and have a part on the program. The afternoon service will begin at 2 o'clock; evening service at 7:30 o'clock.

Carbon Monoxide Is Most Deadly Poison

With the coming of cool weather and the consequent need of closing the garage up to keep out drafts, extra precaution must be exercised by all car owners that the exhaust gas is piped out so as not to contaminate the air inside.

Carbon monoxide, always present in exhaust fumes, is a deadly gas which exacts a heavy toll of casualties among careless motorists every winter. It is odorless and colorless and gives no warning, yet a small amount inhaled will cause death. Play safe.

Before starting your motor in the garage be sure that the pipe you are using to convey the exhaust gas to the outside air is connected up car along behind a tractor. He solved it by using a drawbar such as is shown in the illustration The bar, which is six feet long, is fastened to a U bolt on the front axle A smaller U bolt clamps the end of the bar to the steering-rod. As the front end of the car is moved, the bar swivels on the bolt fastening, moves the steering-rod to one side, and in this way turns the wheels in the desired direction.—Popular Science Monthly.

Turning Obstinate Nut

If a nut resists all ordinary blandishments try the following: Heat slightly an ordinary single spanner that fits the nut and let it rest on the nut for a few minutes. The heat transmitted from spanner to nut expands the latter, so that it can usually be run off without further trouble. Do not make the mistake of heating the nut with a blow lamp, as this expands the bolt also, so that the condition is unaltered

Exhaust Valve Springs

If the springs of the exhaust valves become weak from use or heat the pistons will draw burnt gases into the cylinders, past the valves with the incoming gasoline charge, giving an improper mixture. The valve springs should be tested occasionally to see if they are of full strength. The average strength of a valve spring should be 80 pounds. At high engine speed the exhaust valves nearly always permit some leakage.

Admirable Silencer

Ordinary cotton braid, such as every woman's sewing kit contains, makes an admirable silencer wherever sheet metal comes in contact with sheet metal. Heavy cotton tape is better where there is heavy wear, as, for instance, under the hood. In the case of squeaking fenders, a length of cotton braid bunched under the fastening nuts, which are then drawn up tight on lock nuts, will be found useful in silencing noise.

To Avoid Scoring

When an engine has been standing idle for several days, so that it is reasonably sure that the cylinder walls are dry, it is a very sensible precaution to inject a couple of teaspoonfuls of cylinder oil into each cylinder by way of the petcocks and then turn the engine over a few times. This oil prevents any danger of scoring and also assists in getting good compression.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF AUTO DRIVERS

Each Individual Has His Own Ideas of Piloting Cars Through Streets.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

There are as many different types of motorcar drivers as there are human beings—there must be since the mind operating the car is human. To point out each individual kind of a driver is certainly to point directly at you in one or more cases. However, if it tends to make the reader see himself as that kind of a driver and to correct that fault before six feet of earth is piled on top of him, why—the mission of this aricle is accomplished.

A word about the chap who, when he wants to turn right, has somehow always maneuvered to your right and must therefore cross over in front of your car. The same with the left turn. How easy it would be for every one else if he would think a little in advance and get his machine into a position where, if he wished to turn left, he would be in the same left stream of traffic.

Driver With Dented Fenders.

Then the driver with the bent and dented fenders and the battered or missing hub caps. His special joy is to come as close to your carefully groomed car as possible without actually striking it. Often he miscalculates and your machine is shocked into a condition resembling his. You try to collect damages and discover that he owes money on his car and that it already has been attached for damages by some one else.

His brother can slip between a truck and a street car with a diligence and daring that is laudable. But one day the resulting wreck minces several law-abiding motorists.

Or the boy who comes on at a sizzling speed and then—bang!—on goes his brakes. The tires scrape, the car tenses and groans and the brakes shriek—everyone expecting a crash. But, through the fine and lofty purpose of the car's builder, things, somehow, hold together and the accident is averted—that time But one day this habit of his results in his being removed from the highway—forever.

Hates to Slow Down.

Still another type approaches, gliding at high speed in the grooves of the trolley rails. Because of his smooth approach he hates to slow down, and whiz—over the crossing he swishes, grazing a street car, a truck, several automobiles and half-a-dozen pedestrians. Then he sticks his head out of the side and grins at the consternation he has caused. This very same grin is on his face when, later, he is hurried to the morgue

WHY DO THEY DO IT?

Oversize Tire Mileage

The custom of using oversize tires is becoming popular, and it may be well to remind car owners making this change that these larger sizes, one inch bigger in wheel diameter and three inches in wheel circumference, make a difference in speedometer registration. The recording instrument will turn up fewer miles with the larger tires than with standard sizes. A 30-inch tire will drop a mile in every 30 traveled or, in other words, will record only 29 miles instead of 30 actually traveled.

Ammonia Is Harmful to Finish of Auto

There used to be a common practice of trying to brighten up the finish of the hood by the use on it of a solution of ammonia. This is about the worst thing that could be done, as ammonia eventually destroys the finish.

Unfortunately, the ammonia gives a little temporary brilliance to the finish, but in the long run it ruins it. In fact, the car manufacturers recommend that no car be kept in a stable or barn, as the ammonia from manure gradually destroys the enameled surface.

Parisian Chair Menders

Paris still has its "old chair men" who give an old-time aspect to the streets as they go about collecting old chairs which they take away to be repaired. Some ride bicycles, which become piled high like a pyramid before the mender starts on the home stretch.

Zena, Oct. 23—The Ladies' League of Zena will give a pig roast and chicken supper on Friday evening, October 31. Serving to begin at 6 p. m. The ladies will also have a sales table where many useful handmade articles, suitable for Christmas gifts, will be on sale. Remember the old advice, worthy to observe, "Do your Christmas shopping early." Supper and sales will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Carnright, Sawkill road, just south of Reformed Church.

Material for Buttons

Vegetable ivory, a material from which buttons are made, is collected chiefly in South America and Africa. From the former comes the corozo nut, the commonest sort of vegetable ivory, while Africa grows a strange apple which in due course hardens to the hardness of ivory. Thousands of these nuts and apples are converted into buttons every year.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

INTIMACY WITH NATURE

WHEN troubles come, which are as much a part of earthly life as the leaves on the trees, or the blades of grass, go forth at every available opportunity among those wretched humans who are less fortunate than you, crowded in narrow city streets or isolated in out-of-the-way places in country lanes, and compare, if you can, their conditions with yours.

If you will do this with your vision unblurred and take accurate note of everything you see, you will find by comparison that whatever your hardships may be, you are but one of the world's thousands who are bearing the heavy cross, the common heritage of mankind.

Through the clouds which have been hovering over you for days and weeks, you may among these burden-bearers see a rift of sunshine in your own dismal sky and return from your brief tour of observation a far more patient man or woman than you were when you started.

Ill-luck, broken fortune, disappointment, affliction and trial cannot be overcome by courting, coddling and keeping them ever at your elbow.

To get away from their depressing and injurious influences you must turn your back upon them, seek a new atmosphere in new surroundings which, without your suspecting it, will gradually unchain your imprisoned self and enable you to regain your former freedom and light-heartedness.

When time is out of joint, cares oppress, wealth takes wings and old friends snub and turn their backs upon you, seek closer intimacies with Nature.

Take solitary walks among the silent hills, in the shadowed woods and among unfrequented paths where wild flowers lift up their lovely faces and the birds chirp in gladness, unmindful of lurking enemies.

It was in such communions as these that John Burroughs, the great, beloved naturalist, found unspeakable relaxation and pleasure which inspired him to write:

Serene, I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, or tide or sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For, lo! my own shall come to me.

Mother's Cook Book

"When it shall be said in any country in the world, 'My poor are happy; neither ignorance nor distress is to be found upon them; my jails are empty of prisoners, my streets of beggars; the aged are not in want, the taxes are not oppressive; the rational world is my friend, because I am a friend of its happiness'—when these things can be said, then may that country boast of its constitution and its government.—Thomas Paine.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

A VERY pretty and good-flavored salad is prepared from honeydew melon. Cut the melon into sections two inches wide and remove the skin. Place on tender white leaves of lettuce or endive. On the melon arrange, alternately, sections of orange and grapefruit, or fresh pears. Garnish with fresh berries, maraschino cherries, or, lacking these, cubes of bright-colored jelly. Serve with a French dressing in which a few chopped candied cherries, a little candied pineapple, green plum or preserved strawberries, all chopped, are added.

When serving a choice luncheon to a small number try:

Stuffed Chicken Legs.

Take the legs from the chicken before cooking, remove the bones and stuff the cavity with chicken stuffing. Put into a baking dish, add chicken broth to cover; cover the dish and cook slowly until the meat is tender. Thicken the stock and serve poured over the legs.

Baked Broiled Chicken.

Cut up a fowl as for fricassee. Sift together one-half cupful of flour, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt and pepper, one-third of a cupful of milk, a well-beaten egg; beat until smooth and dip each piece of chicken into this batter and then into dry bread crumbs. Place in a pan with one-third of a cupful of butter and cook under the gas flame until well-browned on both sides. Remove to a casserole. To two cupfuls of chicken stock add two cupfuls of water, boiling hot, and two chicken bouillon cubes, adding crumbs to the fat; pour all over the chicken and bake in a slow oven until the chicken is tender.

Grape Sponge.

Put one-half cupful of grape juice, one-half tablespoonful of gelatin, a few grains of salt, and sugar to taste, in the top of a double boiler. When the gelatin is dissolved, strain, place in a bowl in a pan of ice water, and when it begins to thicken beat with an egg beater until very light. Add one stiffly beaten egg white, mold and chill. Serve with a thin, boiled custard, or with cream.

MEN YOU MAY MARRY

By E. R. PEYSER

Has a man like this proposed to you?

Symptoms: Not particularly noble looking. Rather slight and angular. He holds a position of great human and social value; he seems simple, yet he is a personage. He is great fun, looks jolly, likes to play and loves to work, never talks of work when he plays. Always ready to play when his job is over.

IN FACT

He is the eternal big, large-hearted boy.

Kingston City Plumbing Code

Regulating the work of plumbing, ventilation and drainage in the City of Kingston, including the materials, workmanship and manner of executing such work, as formulated and adopted by the Board of Health, in conjunction with the Examining Board of Plumbers of the said city, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 20 of the Laws of 1909 and Acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto.

PLUMBING LAWS.

SECTION 1.

Registration.

Every person conducting, or desiring or intending to conduct, the business or calling of plumbing in the City of Kingston, whether residing in said city or elsewhere, shall obtain a certificate of competency from the Examining Board of Plumbers of said city, and present such certificate in person at the office of the Board of Health of said city, register his name and address upon such forms as may be prescribed by said Board of Health, and receive a certificate of registration, before he enters upon such business or calling, or before making any connection with any sewer, drain, soil or waste pipe connected therewith; and shall comply with all statutes applicable thereto.

SECTION 2.

Change of Address.

Every registered plumber shall give immediate notice of any change in his registered address, and upon his retirement from business shall surrender his certificate of registry to the Board of Health.

SECTION 3.

Revocation of Certificate.

Whenever the Plumbing Inspector reports to the Board of Health a violation of any of these rules and regulations for plumbing and drainage, or a deviation from any officially approved plans or specifications for plumbing and drainage filed with the Board of Health, the said Board of Health shall cause its Secretary to serve a notice in writing of such violation upon the Master Plumber doing the work, to be directed to such Master Plumber at the address registered by him with such board, and unless such violation is corrected or removed within three days after the date of mailing such notice, exclusive of the day of mailing, the Board of Health shall proceed to cancel such certificate of registration, after a hearing had before said Board of Health, and upon a prior notice of not less than ten days, stating the grounds of complaint, and served upon the person charged with such violation; but such revocation shall not be operative unless concurred in by the local board of examiners.

SECTION 4.

Expiration of Certificate.

All certificates of registration issued by the Board of Health, and all licenses or permits authorizing connections with street sewers shall expire on the thirty-first day of December of the year in which they shall be issued, and may be renewed within thirty days preceding such expiration; such renewals to be for one year from the first day of January in each year.

SECTION 5.

Protection of Excavation.

Any plumber obtaining permit to make connections with a city sewer shall save harmless the City of Kingston from all suits, accidents and damages consequent thereupon for or by reason of any opening in any street, alley or avenue made by him, or by those in his employment, for making any connection with public or private sewer, or for any other purpose or object whatever, and that he will also replace and restore the street over such opening in as good a state and condition as he found it, or reimburse the Board of Public Works for the cost of same when done by said board; keep guards by day and light by night, and keep and maintain the same in good order and comply with all ordinances of the Board of Public Works applicable thereto.

SECTION 6.

Certificate of Approval.

Every Master Plumber, before entering upon such business or calling, shall execute and file a bond in the office of the City Clerk in the sum of one thousand dollars with one or more sureties, and which bond shall cover the provisions of the preceding section, and shall be approved by the Mayor as to the sufficiency of the sureties and by the Corporation Counsel as to its form.

PLANS.

SECTION 7.

Plans to Be Submitted.

(a) Plans or written description of work must be submitted to Inspector of Plumbing for approval before any part of the plumbing work is commenced. There shall be a separate plan for each building, public or private, showing the size and kind of pipes, traps, closets and fixtures, etc., to be used, the same to be examined and placed on file in the office of the Board of Health.

SECTION 8.

Change of Plans.

(b) Applications for change in plans or work in the building must be made in writing by the plumber, duly signed by the owner or his agent, before any part of the work is commenced.

SECTION 9.

Drainage Condemned.

(c) When the plumbing and drainage of buildings has been inspected and condemned, plans must be filed, and the new work or alterations shall be executed in accordance with these rules and regulations.

SECTION 10.

Approval of Plans.

(d) Plans will be approved or rejected within twenty-four (24) hours when practicable, and under no circumstances will a delay beyond five (5) days be permitted.

SEWERS.

SECTION 11.

Application for Connection.

(a) All applications for sewer connections must be made to the Board of Health on forms provided for that purpose, and such application must be signed by the plumber and owner of the property.

SECTION 12.

Permit First Obtained.

(b) No building or premises shall be connected with any sewer, sanitary or storm water, cesspool or vault without, a permit first obtained from the Board of Health, and it is further required that the permit shall be kept on hand during the progress of the work to which it relates, and that it shall be exhibited whenever required by the Plumbing Inspector. The conditions of this permit must be strictly complied with. This regulation applies to all sewers whether on private property or in public streets or alleys. No plumber under any circumstances will be allowed to cut a hole into any vitrified sewer pipe.

SECTION 13.

Connections Properly Made.

(c) It shall be the duty of the Plumbing Inspector to see that such connection is properly made and the Plumbing Inspector shall make and keep a record of all connections, noting the street and the number of the house so connected.

SECTION 14.

No Y Branch Found.

(d) If, when the excavation for the connection is made to the sewer, no "Y" branch is found within three feet each way from the point indicated, the Plumbing Inspector shall notify the Superintendent of Streets and Sewers, who will at once insert a "Y" branch for such connection.

SECTION 15.

No Connection Covered.

(e) No connection with a "Y" branch will be covered until the Plumbing Inspector shall have endorsed on the permit issued by the Board of Health that such connection has been properly made.

DRAINS.

SECTION 16.

One Drain for Each Building.

The plumbing system of each new building, or new plumbing installed in an existing building, shall be entirely separate from and independent of that of any other building, except as provided for in the following section.

Wherever practicable every building shall have an independent connection with a public or private sewer.

SECTION 17.

Two or More Buildings on a Lot.

Where a building stands in the rear of another on the same lot, the house drains from the front building may be extended to the rear building, private garage or barn, and the whole will be considered as one main drain when run outside of building.

SECTION 18.

Material Used.

All house drains laid beneath the ground inside of building or beneath the cellar floor, and not less than three feet outside the foundation wall shall be made of Cast Iron pipe.

SECTION 19.

Connections When Prohibited.

Rain water leaders shall not be used as soil, waste or vent pipes; nor shall any soil, waste or vent pipes be used as rain water leaders.

SECTION 20.

When Leaders Connect to Drains.

When rain water leaders are connected to house drains within the building, the horizontal part extending two feet inside the basement wall and the vertical portion outside the building wall shall terminate with the hub at grade line, and shall be made of cast iron, same weight and durability as provided for house drains.

SECTION 21.

Roof Terminal Connections.

Connections between gutters, troughs, roof areas and rain water leaders inside the building, shall be made of durable material.

SECTION 22.

Materials.

All main and branch soil, waste, vent and back vent pipes shall be made of cast iron coated with tar or asphaltum, galvanized wrought iron or steel pipe, or lead, brass or copper pipe.

SECTION 23.

Four Inch Stack May Be Decreased.

A closet may be installed or a 4-inch soil pipe rising from house drain in first or second floor, and may be vented with a 2-inch vent pipe, provided the premises where such closet is to be installed has a 4-inch soil pipe stack of undiminished size extending through the roof.

SECTION 24.

In garages, barns, etc., a closet may be installed on the first or ground floor and may be vented with a 2-inch pipe.

SECTION 25.

Protection From Frost.

All drains, soil, waste or vent and supply pipe shall be as direct as possible, properly protected from frost, and arranged so as to be readily accessible for inspection and repairs.

BRANCH SOIL AND WASTE EXTENSIONS.

SECTION 26.

Any branch running more than (15) fifteen feet from the soil line, shall be continued full size to a point above the roof in the same manner as required for main soil pipes, or may be returned to main vent pipe, full size. (See Section 30.)

TRAPS DISTANCE FROM VENTS.

SECTION 27.

The back vent of any fixture trap shall be as close to the trap as practicable, consistent with its location and effectiveness.

SECTION 28.

Crown Vent Prohibited.

In no case shall the vent be taken off from the crown of the trap.

SECTION 29.

When Antisiphon Traps Can Be Used.

When a common trap is not adequate protection against sewer air.

SECTION 30.

When it is impracticable to vent, an antisiphon trap shall be installed. A free circulation of air must be provided.

SECTION 31.

Vent Re-Connected.

All vent shall be run separately through the roof, or be connected at least eight inches below the roof; or be connected to the main vent pipe not less than three feet above the highest floor on which fixtures are placed. No fitting or fittings for future waste connections shall be placed in any soil or waste pipe above the point of recent connection.

SECTION 32.

Rearranging or Vent and Revents.

Where fixtures are afterwards installed on a soil or waste line above a point where the vent or revents enter the vent or vent stack, the vent and revent pipes of the fixtures already installed shall be rearranged to conform to the provisions of the code.

SECTION 33.

Vent Pipe Grades and Connections.

All branch vent and back vent pipes shall be free from drops or sags, and shall be so graded and connected as to drop back to the soil or waste pipe by gravity. Whenever it becomes necessary to trap a horizontal vent pipe, the proper method for doing so must be complied with.

SECTION 34.

Fixtures Parted by Wall.

Where bath-rooms, water-closets or other fixtures are located on opposite sides of a wall or partition in the same buildings or are directly adjacent to each other in two inseparable buildings, such fixtures may have a common soil or waste pipe and vent pipe stack.

CONTINUOUS OR CIRCUIT VENT INSTALLATION.

SECTION 35.

Batteries of closets, urinals, sinks, basins, etc., may be installed by the continuous or circuit vent system, loops and circuit vents shall be of the following sizes: 2 inches for a battery of two closets, 3 inches for a battery of five closets, 4 inches for a battery of six or twelve closets. For urinals, sinks, basins, or similar fixtures the loop or circuit shall be of no less than 1½ inch.

GRADE OF HORIZONTAL PIPES.

SECTION 36.

All horizontal drain, soil and waste pipes shall be run at the uniform grade of ¼ inch per foot or more, and in no case shall the grade be less than ⅛ inch per foot, whether under cellar floor or supported by piers, posts, wall ledges or iron hangers.

SECTION 37.

To Increase or Reduce Size of Pipes.

Proper fittings of sanitary design shall be used to increase or reduce size of pipes, and to be approved by the Plumbing Inspector.

HANGERS AND SUPPORTS.

SECTION 38.

All hangers, pipe supports and fixture settings in or against masonry, concrete or stone backing shall be securely made with expansion bolts or other approved methods without the use of wood plugs. All drainage and plumbing pipes shall be rigidly secured and supported so that the proper alignment will be retained.

SECTION 39.

Backgrounds.

Backgrounds, except under special conditions, must be provided for the securing of closets, tanks, basins, sinks, brackets and all other wall fixtures or hangings.

SECTION 40.

Stack Supports.

All stacks shall be thoroughly supported on concrete masonry piers or foot rests at their bases; and those ten feet or more in height shall be provided with floor rest or other substantial supports at ten feet or floor intervals. All pipe supports shall be made of heavy iron posts, wall hangers or brackets, steel fittings or concrete or masonry piers. All brick piers shall be at least 12 inches square.

QUALITY OF MATERIAL.

SECTION 41.

Vitrified Pipe.

All pipe and fittings shall be first quality vitrified clay pipe, sound and well burned throughout their thickness, with well glazed smooth exterior and interior surfaces, free from cracks, flaws, blisters, fire checks and all other imperfections which would impair their value.

CAST IRON PIPE.

SECTION 42.

All cast iron pipe and fittings shall be tarred or gray iron, smooth on the inside, free from flaws, sand holes and other defects and of a uniform thickness. Such pipes and fittings shall not be lighter than the commercial grade known as "Standard."

SECTION 43.

Screw Thread Fittings.

All screw thread fittings used for soil and waste pipes shall be of cast or malleable iron or brass. Waste Fittings shall be of the recessed, drainage fittings pattern.

SECTION 44.

The drilling and tapping of soil, vent and waste pipes and house drains to receive waste and vent pipes of any description is strictly prohibited, and in no case will the use of saddles or bands be permitted, without permission from the Plumbing Inspector.

SECTION 45.

Whenever horizontal wrought or galvanized iron pipe connects with cast iron, soil, waste or vent lines, tapped fittings or tap extension pieces shall be used wherever practicable. No double hub or inverted calk joint shall be permitted in soil and waste lines.

TRAPS AND CLEAN-OUTS.

SECTION 46.

Traps.

Each fixture, shall be separately trapped by an approved trap, placed as close to the fixture as possible.

All traps must be approved by the Plumbing Inspector.

SECTION 47.

Traps for bath tubs, basins or other similar fixtures shall be made of lead, brass or iron. Each trap shall have a water seal of not less than two inches. Laundry trays, or similar fixtures may waste into single trap. The outlet waste pipe and trap of three or four compartments should be at least 2 inches in diameter.

SECTION 48.

Trap Clean-Outs.

All traps placed between a floor and a ceiling, or in any other accessible place, shall have a brass screw cleanout, flush with the floor, or accessible from under the floor.

SECTION 49.

Setting of Traps.

All traps shall be rigidly supported and set true with respect to their water level, and so located as to protect their seals.

SECTION 50.

Traps—Where Prohibited.

There shall be no trap at the foot of soil or waste pipe stacks, except where such a drain or sewer is used exclusively for conducting rain water or surface water to a house drain or sewer.

SECTION 51.

Traps or Rain Water Leaders.

One trap may serve for one or more rain water leaders. When rain water leaders are carried up to the roof of a building they need not be provided with traps, unless such conductors terminate within 12 ft. of any door or window. Conductor branches taken off a head of the main house trap on street side must be provided with traps properly located to guard against frost.

SECTION 52.

Overflow Connections.

Overflow pipes from fixtures in each case shall be connected on the inlet side of the trap.

MAIN HOUSE TRAP.

SECTION 53.

Immediately Inside Foundation.

The house drain must be provided with a horizontal trap set level and placed inside of foundation wall where sewer enters building. This trap must be provided with a handhole to which clean-out is connected.

SECTION 54.

Every house shall have an inlet for fresh air on the house side of the trap, not less than four inches in diameter and leading to the outer air.

SECTION 55.

In main house traps cast iron pipe shall be extended from handhold of traps to a point two inches above the surface of finished floor or grade. All clean-outs in house drains shall be at least four inches in diameter.

SECTION 56.

All other clean-outs shall be of adequate size and location in such a manner as to serve the purpose for which they were intended, to the approval of the Plumbing Inspector.

JOINTS AND CONNECTIONS.

SECTION 57.

Joints in Vitrified Pipe.

Joints in vitrified pipes shall be made with mortar composed of equal parts of hydraulic or Portland cement and clean sharp sand, thoroughly mixed dry, with enough water added to give the proper consistency. The joints must be pointed carefully on the outside, and the pipe left clean and smooth on the inside by drawing through it a swab.

SECTION 58.

Cast Iron Pipe.

All joints in cast iron pipe shall be made by first inserting a roll of hemp, oakum or jute and thoroughly calking it in place, and then following with pure molten lead, well calked, not less than one inch deep. lead to be brought to top of hub and faced.

SECTION 59.

Wrought Iron and Brass.

Joints in galvanized iron or brass pipe shall be standard screw joints and all burs or cuttings shall be removed.

SECTION 60.

Wrought Iron or Brass and Cast Iron.

Connections between wrought iron and brass and cast iron shall be either a calked joint or a screw joint.

SECTION 61.

Joints in Lead Pipe.

Joints in lead pipe or between lead, brass or copper pipes shall in all cases be wiped joints.

SECTION 62.

Wrought Iron Pipe Connections.

Connections between lead and cast or wrought iron pipes shall be made with a calked joint, a soldering nipple or threaded joint. All unions used on the sewer side of traps shall be ground faced. No slip-joint connections will be allowed on the sewer side of the trap.

ROOF JOINTS.

SECTION 63.

Joints Tight.

The joint at the roof shall be made water tight by use of proper sheet copper sheet lead, or galvanized roof flange.

CATCH BASINS.

SECTION 64.

Grease Catch Basins.

All grease catch basins shall be constructed in a water-tight and substantial manner of brick, cement, concrete, iron or vitrified Clay pipe. The outlet shall be provided with a 4-inch inverted bend and clean-out, shall be submerged at least 8 inches, and shall be placed in the wall of the basin not less than 2 feet six inches above the bottom. The basin shall have an air-tight stone, cement or cast iron cover.

SECTION 65.

Where Used.

Grease catch basins of adequate capacity must be installed wherever kitchen or other greasy wastes from hotels, restaurants, club houses, public institutions or similar places are discharged into the sewer. Grease catch basins may be omitted from the plumbing system of a private residence.

GARAGE CATCH BASINS.

SECTION 66.

Garage drains shall be intercepted before entering the sewer by a suitable catch basin properly trapped.

SECTION 67.

Basement Floor Drains.

Cellar or basement floor drains must connect into a deep seal trap so constructed that it can be cleaned readily, and under proper conditions sewer air excluded.

SECTION 68.

No steam exhaust, blow off, or drip pipe from a steam boiler shall connect with the sewer, drain, soil or waste pipe. Such pipe must discharge into a tank or condenser, from which an outlet to the drain may be provided, properly trapped.

FIXTURES—WATER-CLOSETS.

SECTION 69.

Porcelain or Vitreous Chinaware.

All water-closets shall be made of porcelain or vitreous chinaware. The bowl and trap must be made of the combined patterns in one piece. They shall hold a sufficient quantity of water and be of such shape and form that no fecal matter will collect on the surface of the bowl. All water-closets shall be equipped with adequate flushing rims, so as to flush and scour the bowl properly when discharged.

SECTION 70.

Frost Proof Closets—When Permitted.

Outside frost proof closets may be installed only in compartments which have no direct connections with any building used for human habitation. The soil pipe between the hopper and the trap shall be of cast iron, four inches in diameter and free from offsets.

SECTION 71.

Urinals must be of material impervious to moisture, must be properly flushed and kept in a sanitary condition. If cast iron is used in the construction of urinals it must be enameled on the inside of the trough or bowl and coated with a durable paint or enameled on the outside. No sheet metal will be permitted.

SECTION 72.

Bath tubs shall be made of earthenware, vitreous chinaware, enameled iron ware or other impervious material.

LOCATION OF FIXTURES.

SECTION 73.

Not Located in the Sleeping Apartments.

Water-closets must not be located in the sleeping apartments of any building, nor in any room or apartment which has not direct communication with the external air, either by a window or air shaft.

SECTION 74.

Water Supply to Fixtures.

All water-closets urinals or other plumbing fixtures shall be provided with a sufficient supply of water for flushing to keep them in a sanitary condition.

SECTION 75.

Old House Drains.

Old house drains may be used in connection with new buildings or new plumbing only when they are found on examination or test to conform to the requirements of this Code governing new sewers and drains. If the old work found is defective, the inspector shall notify the owner of the changes necessary to make it conform to the requirements of this Code.

SECTION 76.

Reconstruction.

When old or defective plumbing is to be remodeled, additional fixtures installed or the whole plumbing system moved to some other part of the building, then the remodeled system shall be made to conform to this Code.

SECTION 77.

Repairs.

All repairs to fixtures or piping shall be done in a substantial, sanitary and workmanlike manner.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL.

Sewage Treatment Disposal Plants.

SECTION 78.

When No Sewerage System Is Available.

Septic, biological or other sewage treatment and disposal tanks may be constructed and used where no public sewerage system is available or likely to become available within a reasonable time.

SECTION 79.

Permission to Construct.

Permission to construct cesspool or septic tank must be obtained from the Plumbing Inspector or the Health Officer.

SECTION 80.

No cesspool or other system for sewage disposal shall be constructed where a sewer is available, except by special permission of the Board of Health, nor shall any connection from such cesspool be made with any sewer.

INSPECTIONS AND TESTS.

SECTION 81.

Inspections.

All piping of a drainage or plumbing system, (except in case of repairs,) shall be tested by the plumber in charge in the manner herein provided, in the presence of the inspector of plumbing.

SECTION 82.

Material and Labor.

The material and labor for tests shall be furnished by the Master Plumber.

SECTION 83.

House Drain Tests.

The entire house drain with all its branches, receptacles and connections, shall be brought so far as practicable to the surface or grade of basement floor and tested with water or air. Upon being found free from defects and leaking joints, the test shall be considered satisfactory.

SECTION 84.

Covering of Work.

No part of any plumbing or drainage system shall be covered until it has been inspected, tested and approved. If any part is covered before being tested and approved, it shall be uncovered at the expense of the Master Plumber under the direction of the Plumbing Inspector.

SECTION 85.

Final Inspection.

When the plumbing or drainage system is completed and fixtures are installed, the final inspection shall be made; and no such plumbing or drainage system shall be used until it has been inspected and approved, unless special permission is given by the proper authorities for its temporary use.

SECTION 86.

Inspection for Changes or Alterations.

When additional fixtures are installed or the style or location of any fixture is changed or when changes are made in the piping system, the work shall be inspected.

SECTION 87.

Soils, Waste and Vent Tests.

Soil, waste and vent pipes, rain water leaders and all work known as roughing in and under floor work between the house drain connections to points above the finished floors and beyond the finished face of walls and partitions, shall be tested.

SECTION 88.

Water, Air and Peppermint Test.

The water test shall be applied by closing all openings in the pipes with proper testing plugs, to the highest opening above the roof, and completely filling the system with water, or upon danger of freezing, an air test with pressure of at least five pounds shall be used, or the peppermint test. If the pipes are found free from defects and leaking joints, the test shall be considered complete and satisfactory.

SECTION 89.

Smoke Test.

The smoke test shall be used in testing the sanitary condition of the drainage or plumbing system of all buildings where there is reason to believe it has become dangerous or defective on account of settlement of the building, abuse, accident or other cause.

The smoke machine shall be connected to any suitable opening or outlet in the system. When the system is filled completely with dense pungent smoke, and the opening emit smoke, they shall be closed and an air pressure equivalent to a one-inch water column may be applied) and left standing at least ten minutes. If there is no leakage or forcing of trap seals, the system shall be considered air and gas tight. Nothing, however, in this section shall be construed to prohibit the removal of any clean-out or the unsealing of a trap to ascertain if the smoke has reached all parts of the system.

SECTION 90.

Notice for Inspection.

The Master Plumber shall notify the inspector in writing when the work is ready for inspection. Twelve hours' notice must be given when the work is sufficiently advanced for all inspections and tests. If the inspection is not made within a reasonable time, after the notice is given the plumber in charge may proceed with the work.

DEFECTS IN MATERIAL.

SECTION 91.

If tests or inspections disclose defective material, leakage, or unworkmanlike construction, which does not conform to the requirements of this Code, and which is condemned by the Inspector of Plumbing, the same shall be removed and replaced within three days, and when necessary retested.

SECTION 92.

The presence of any foreign substance, other than that provided for in this Code, about a joint or any part of a Plumbing or drainage system shall be sufficient cause for condemning such joint or part of the system. Any split fittings, hubs, pipes or defects in material which do not conform to the requirements of this Code and which have been condemned by the Inspector shall be removed from the work and not used again.

SANITATION.

SECTION 93.

Drainage Installations.

All drainage systems and installations, including piping, traps and back venting in connection therewith, must be made in a sanitary manner, and in accordance with good practice and the provisions of this Code.

SECTION 94.

Roof Terminals Protected.

The roof terminal of all vent pipes shall be extended at least three feet above any door, window, scuttle, air shaft or other opening used for ventilation when located at a distance less than twelve feet from such terminal.

SECTION 95.

Special Conditions.

Whenever in the opinion of the Board of Health, special conditions arise that render it impracticable to comply with all the provisions herein specified, modifications may be allowed provided the premises are left in a sanitary condition. The decision of the Board shall be final in regard to such modifications, and the fact of a variation of the regulations being allowed in any case shall not in any sense be considered a precedent for any other case. Application to and permission from the Board of Health shall first be obtained before any variations can be performed.

SECTION 96.

All regulations or parts of regulations inconsistent with or repugnant to the provisions of these regulations heretofore published are hereby repealed.

SECTION 97.

Misdemeanor.

Any person violating any of the provision of the law to secure the registration of plumbers, and the supervision of plumbing and drainage in the cities of this State, or any of the rules or regulations of the Board of Health or the Examining Board of Plumbers in the City of Kingston regulating the plumbing and drainage of buildings of said city, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Indiana Leader In Lower Branch Of Congress Handling Speakers For National Coolidge Campaign

Successful national political campaigns are not carried on by hit-or-miss organizations. The party hoping for victory in November must build a thorough, efficient organization early in the campaign—a machine whose various departments are perfectly coordinated and well managed.

No phase of a campaign is more important than that having to do with the speakers, the missionaries who go out into the various states and discuss party policies in an effort to convince voters of the worth of their candidates. And the Republican National Committee, recognizing this truth, has given particular attention to this phase of its activities.

In selecting Representative Everett Sanders, of Terre Haute, Ind., as director of the Republican Speakers' Bureau, the National Committee made a splendid choice. He has proved by his activity in the House during eight years of service that he has all the qualifications essential to this work.

In his first campaign Representative Sanders contested against Eugene V. Debs, and the Socialist Party made a great effort to win the seat. Sanders won, two to one. He has been a member of the House Republican Steering Committee during his last two terms, thus helping to direct the legislative program of that body, and is a member of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. Frequently he presided over the House when it has deliberated as a Committee of the Whole and is one of the ablest authorities on parliamentary law who ever sat in Congress. He always has taken an active part in House debates.

Congressman Sanders was born in Coalmont, Indiana, in 1852 and has been practicing law in Terre Haute since 1907. His success as director of the Speakers' Bureau is unquestioned.

"Never in any campaign," he recently said, "has there been a more spontaneous response from men and women who wish to serve in the interests of the Republican party. The obvious desire of President Coolidge to safeguard the interests of all the people has assured his election."

Pearl Superstition

There is an old superstition that pearls are the congealed tears of heaven. There was a belief in the East that at the full moon the pearl oyster rose to the surface of the sea and opened to receive falling dewdrops from heaven, which hardened into pearls.

Tracing Arabian Numerals

Arabian numerals were introduced into Spain about the close of the Tenth century by the Moors or Arabs, who got them as early as the Sixteenth century from the Hindoos. Before that time, little is known about them. They did not come into general use in Europe until the Sixteenth century.

What They Remark and What They Really Mean

Nearly all adverse criticism means, "I could have done it much better."

All praise of the gushing variety means, "I couldn't have done better myself."

"Please criticize this work for me," usually means, "Please give this the once-over and then praise me."

"Please don't observe too closely, for the house is in a frightful state" usually means, "Take a look and see if you can find any dust."

"I didn't have time to do my hair" usually means, "I think it arranged very becomingly and you are invited to share my opinion."

"I am not half good enough for you" means, "Please assure me that you consider it an honor to be courted by a man of my excellence."

"The common people are half-baked idiots" means, "The common people haven't sense enough to appreciate me."

"Hurrah for Brown" means "Brown's opinions are similar to mine, which is sufficient evidence that he is a good and wise man."

"I had few advantages as a boy" means, "Haven't I accomplished wonders for one so handicapped at the start?"

"I'll be glad to introduce you to any of these people" means, "Make a note of the fact that I am on intimate terms with all of these big guys."—Baltimore Sun.

Continue Search for "Lost" Arizona Mines

Of all the legends of buried treasure the most persistent is the one about lost gold mines of Arizona. Only the Indians are supposed to possess the secret of this baffling mystery, although the story has been circulated for more than a century.

That there once were mines in the region is indicated by references found in early Spanish diaries and by the tales passed down through several generations of natives who were compelled to dig the ore as slaves of their conquerors. The chief evidence in support of the tradition is the altar of the San Xavier mission, not far from Tucson. It is described as being "inlaid with virgin gold." Mission records show that the precious metal was brought from Canada del Oro where it was mined by Indians under the direction of Spanish priests.

But no trace now exists of the diggings, and the old trail over which the gold is said to have been carried by pack mules disappears abruptly in the sands.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

How Lawyer Summed Up Town's Officials

There dwelt down East a quaint old character, "Lawyer Hopkins," whose notion of the divine origin and character of justice was certainly modern in its practicality. He occasionally practiced law in a small way and in a manner peculiarly his own.

On one occasion a flock of sheep disappeared and their heads were found in a flour barrel in the barn of a certain man, who was thereupon arrested and tried for sheep stealing. Lawyer Hopkins, in conducting the defense, maintained that the sheep were not stolen, but had strayed away, as was common in the spring.

The prosecuting attorney said: "Yes, I know sheep do stray away this time of year, but they do not usually leave their heads in flour barrels in the haymow."

Hopkins went to a neighboring town to settle the case with the selectman, but failed, and gave this report, characterizing the three town officials: "Mr. A—— will do nothing wrong if he knows it; Mr. B—— will do nothing at all if he knows it, and Mr. C—— will do nothing right if he knows it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ancient Custom

"There's a chap I've been in a quandary about for a year," said a man, indicating another who had just passed. "I don't know whether I like him. You see, he has a prejudice against shaking hands. He just naturally won't if there is a possible chance of getting out of it. He always manages to have something else to do when a person to whom he is introduced gets ready to extend the glad hand. That chap says that handshaking is a survival of an ancient custom that has no reason for existing today. He insists if there is anything he dislikes it is to grasp some stranger's moist paw and give it a shake, for when he does so he wants to sneak away and wash his own. I've heard him expatiate upon the subject just after avoiding a handshake with some one to whom I introduced him. I almost guess I don't like him."—Detroit News.

Frog That Liked Eggs

A little girl who studies birds made the discovery that a frog will eat a blackbird's eggs, the London Morning Post reports. She found a low-built nest with two eggs, one having a small hole at the big end. Next day she found a frog on the nest, its tongue flicking in and out of the hole. "Either the noise of the grass under my feet, or the gasp I let out," she relates in a kind of affidavit, "frightened the frog away." On the third day she found both the eggs with holes and empty. Unlike fonds, frogs boast teeth, but are not usually reckoned among egg thieves.

Reason for Nicknames

During the contest between Charles I and his parliament it was fashionable among the church people to give Scripture names to their children, and sometimes the name would consist of a phrase, or even an entire verse. One child was actually named "Who Comforteth Us in All Our Tribulation, That We May Be Able to Comfort Them Which Are in Any Trouble With the Comfort Wherewith We Ourselves Are Comforted." Tichbourne. And what do you suppose the kids dubbed him when he started to school? "Trib."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Many Activities At the Y.W.C.A.

Address on Citizenship Wednesday Evening—Plans for Hallowe'en Party — Other Meetings — Committees Appointed.

There was an unusually large number of girls and women in attendance at the Y. M. C. A. supper on Wednesday evening. Miss Alma Tyler, chairman of the supper committee, announced the following sub-committees:

Serving, Miss Agnes Jarman, chairman, Miss Virginia Herdman, Miss Alice Toole, Miss Hazel Dutton.

Social service, Miss Helen Schwab, chairman; Miss Ethel Kline, Miss Pearl Markle, Miss Florence Wheeler.

Program, Miss Mae Perkins, chairman; Miss Nan Rodie, Miss Eva Shook, Miss Ruth Smith.

Hospitality and attendance, Miss Ruth Glendenning, chairman; Miss Mathilda Martin, Miss Lucinda Rich, Miss Ethel Salzman.

Next Wednesday evening there will be no supper, but on Friday evening, October 30, Hallowe'en, there will be a costume party, with games, dancing and refreshments at 8 o'clock and the girls and women of the city are cordially invited. While it will not be obligatory to appear in costume, it will add much to the fun to do so.

The Schubert Choral Society will have a supper and first meeting on Friday evening of this week. The supper will be at 6:15 o'clock and the rehearsal from 7 to 8:30 o'clock.

On Wednesday evening of next week, the Girl Reserves of the grade schools will have their Hallowe'en party in the gymnasium.

The next regular Wednesday evening supper will be on November 5, and as that is so far away, those wishing to attend are asked to telephone to headquarters for reservations.

Miss Cordes introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Coon of Poughkeepsie who addressed the girls on "Citizenship." With his usual interesting and pertinent anecdotes and personal experiences, Mr. Coon showed the necessity of citizenship making for an upward tendencency in the lives of all about them. He reminded his hearers that nowhere else in the world is there such opportunity for the development of what is in one as in America and in appreciation of such privileges each one should be a real uplifter. Encouraging good acts, little kindnesses and courtesies when noted was another form of good citizenship. The cultivation of personality was still another requirement of good citizenship. Our country is worthy of the greatest intelligence, the best and widest learning, the finest characters of all of its citizens, according to Mr. Coon.

Palladium in Legend

The Palladium was a famous wooden image of Pallas (Minerva), said to have been hurled from heaven by Zeus, and to have fallen near the tent of Ilus, while he was engaged in building Ilium (Troy). The oracle of Apollo having decl'fed that the city should never be taken so long as Palladium was retained within its walls, the statue was placed in a sanctuary and carefully guarded. It was, however, finally stolen by Ulysses and Diomedes about 1184 B. C., and thus victory was secured to the Greeks. According to some accounts, Troy contained two Palladia, one of which was stolen and conveyed to one of the Greek cities, while the other was taken to Italy by Aeneas and secretly guarded by the Romans in the Temple of Vesta. The word "palladium" is sometimes used at the present day to signify a pledge of security and protection.—Kansas City Star.

Sand Clock Was Wrong

Probably there is only one place in the United Kingdom where the sand glass is still used for timing purposes says London Tit-Bits.

In the house of lords a sand glass—a squat, podgy-looking affair—reposes on the clerk's table, and is used to indicate the three minutes allotted to a member during which, after the declaration of division, he is entitled to record his vote.

A few years ago a member challenged the correctness of the glass and upon a test being made he was found to be right, the sand being actually all down in two and three quarters minutes. His vote was allowed and more sand was put in the glass.

Penurious Philanthropist

A widely known banker in an Eastern city is looked upon as a great philanthropist and his name is a symbol of all that is noble. Strong men stop on street corners to extol his virtues. Yet I had some correspondence with him several years ago about buying a house he was handling for an estate and when the deal was closed he charged me for every stamp he had used on letters he wrote me. I insist that a man who watches pennies that closely can't be such a lovely character as his neighbors suppose.—Kansas City Star.

THO' HE FAILED IN ONE TASK

By WALTER DELANEY

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

HAL BARRETT of the mounted police of the Canadian Northwest sat on the sandy beach of the river shore behind the small log cabin that was designated as "Mile Post 24" of the Bully Shoop district.

Beside him was a narrow burrowed hole in the dirt, and he himself had dug it. There were three emotions depicted on his bronzed handsome face as he removed from the inside of his khaki coat an old worn wallet—recklessness, determination, despair.

"The old life lost, never to be regained," he said solemnly, as he drew from the wallet some letters, the last he had received from his home folks back in the States. "I am dead to all the old friends, so—there goes!"

He dropped the letters into the trench he had dug. They bore not the new name he had resolved to adopt, but his own name, his true name, Gerald Pierce.

Then slowly he took from his breast a little packet. It was contained in tissue paper, and as he opened it the fading perfume of dead rose leaves swept his face, and the photograph upon which they lay, bearing the name "Beulah," smiled up at him. Only for a moment, however. His cheek flushed, then paled, his glance heightened then died down to the rugged endurance of secret pain.

"I have no right to hope!" he whispered blankly. "I failed miserably, and she must know. Heaven send her a better man!"

He began pushing the sand over these mementoes of a past life and a past love, as if anxious to forever hide them from his sight. Then slowly, with a whimsical smile, he built up the heaping dirt mound-like, with the words: "Sacred to the memory of the man who couldn't make good!"

The past he had buried embraced three years of wild, adventurous roving. At his home village his reckless career had estranged him from a fond relative, his dead mother's brother. Then had come the worthless, wasted days of the far West. He had been the daring spirit of many a mushroom mining camp. He had caroused long and deeply. Then Canada—and love, and he had seen a new light under the soulful influence of Beulah.

Honest toil, decent companions, ambition to excel had come to him. Then one evil day, at a farmers' gathering, he had been tempted back to the ruby cup. There had been a great broil and arrest. When he awoke in a prison cell he realized how false he had been to his sacred pledge to Beulah—never to touch strong drink again.

He had written her a tear-blurred note releasing her from all future interest in his unworthy self. Heartbroken, spiritless, he had dashed into the wilderness. To the farthest edge of civilization he had penetrated. He had changed his name. Morose, unsocial, he chummed with nobody, and kept away from drink because it had parted him from Beulah.

One day his fine face and athletic frame had struck the eye of an officer in the mounted police. The official made overtures to him, and the man who sought only to bury himself far from the madding crowd, accepted the post at which his true courage would never falter or quail.

He made only one restriction: that he be placed at the remotest post in the service, and thus had come about the isolation at Mile Post 24.

"Here to live and die," he told himself amid the fearful solitude. "The sooner the bullet of some vicious desperado or revengeful Indian meets me, the better!"

So he had entombed his past and his identity. He returned from that solemn, sorrowful ceremony to resume his duties, a dangerous man to trifle with.

The discipline of the post embraced a daily tour of a district twenty-five miles wide. There was one lonely trail to guard.

It was the next morning that he espied a figure toiling up the rugged mountain path. As it neared him he made out a wiry, ferret-faced half-breed.

"What is it?" he challenged as the man halted ten feet away from the cabin, and his carbine ready, he advanced upon the visitor, felt over his clothing, found no weapons, and motioned him towards the cabin with the grudging words:

"Hungry, I suppose?"

"Yes—first," grinned the Indian. "Then I tell you something. It is Red Roger."

"Ha! What of him?" demanded Gerald, spurring up magically, for the name was that of a fugitive desperado long sought for and for whose capture a great reward was offered.

"I have him."

"You have him?" retorted Gerald incredulously. "What do you mean?"

"I take you—but you pay me."

"Yes, half the reward," agreed Gerald readily.

"We go on foot. He is sick, but you know him a bad man. Give me a pistol, too. Then, if we fight, I help."

Gerald let his visitor eat his fill. Then he went to his chest and selected an extra revolver. A sudden thought, a suspicion, repugnance towards the treacherous class the half-breed represented, caused him to reflect.

Finally, however, he handed the weapon to his visitor. The eyes of the latter glowed as he placed it inside his coat.

It was after an hour of rough piloting that the half-breed neared an old shack, moved open its door and revealed a man lying on a heap of skins. He gave Gerald a push. Then came a rapid, startling sensation. The half-breed had flung the revolver Gerald had given him directly into the lap of the recumbent man. Quick as a flash the outlaw, for at once Gerald recognized him, leveled the revolver at his head.

"Hands up!" he ordered, and Gerald obeyed. "You know me. It is to see me crippled, dying, that you of the cursed mounted police have found me! It is this witless half-breed I have bribed to snare you hither, that I may wipe out my hatred of those who have hunted me to this, with one sure shot!"

"Snap!"

"The weapon is empty—I saw to that," pronounced Gerald calmly, producing his weapon, and then with a yell the half-breed dashed for the door and away as he saw his scheme upset.

Within ten minutes the frantic, cursing outlaw was handcuffed and bodily carried by Gerald to the station. Within an hour, propped across the saddle, he was being borne toward Moreton.

There came to Gerald a temptation on that long, tiresome journey over the hills. The outlaw had a bottle of liquor in his pocket. To revive him, Gerald was forced to give him more than one draught. The smell of the liquor at times set his brain on fire, but he defied the direful temptation and reached Moreton.

They told Gerald there that he would be relieved of duty to proceed with the captive to Kingston, where he must be tried. Along the way nothing but praise for his success in finding the clever criminal who had outwitted the entire force for months, greeted Gerald.

It was at Kingston that the newspapers made of him a hero. It was at Kingston that a letter awaited him, announcing that his uncle, dying, had left him nearly all of his fortune.

One day he met Beulah face to face upon the street. He could not help it—Gerald broke down utterly, to blurt out his wretched story. There was real penitence in his humid eyes and only sorrow and love in those of Beulah.

Origin of "Fiasco"

The term "fiasco" for failure will not appear so incongruous if we go back to its place of origin. When an art worker in a glass works at Venice spoiled the beautiful jug or goblet he was blowing there was nothing left for him to do with the material but to make a common flask or bottle of it; so his intended work of art became a "fiasco."—London Chronicle.

Annual Meeting Of Red Cross

Miss Askam for invalid shut-in.

8 layettes made by the Production Committee were distributed to needy babies.

8 quilts, cotton given by the Red Cross

11 children's quilts, cotton given by the Red Cross were made by Mrs. Pettinger and Ladies' Aid of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church for poor families.

8 pair stockings and 8 sets of underwear were also given by Mrs. Pettinger.

3 pair shoes were given by a friend to the Red Cross for needy family.

1 wheel chair was given for an invalid.

About 35 different families were assisted when these articles were given.

Executive Secretary's Report.

The annual report of Mrs. Cornelia W. Hasbrouck, executive secretary, reviewed the proceedings of the Fourth National Convention of the Red Cross at Washington, and giving a brief summary of the various addresses delivered there.

Nominating Committee Appointed.

The chairman then appointed the following nominating committee to report at once as to nominations for members of the executive committee. Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Mrs. T. J. Hickey, William C. DeWitt, Mrs. C. N. Reed.

Mr. Cantine's Appreciation.

Before the committee retired to perform their duties, Mr. Cantine said that during the two past years of his chairmanship of the Red Cross, the cooperation afforded him had been wonderful. Last year, in accepting a re-election, he had done so with the explicit understanding that it would be for just one year, as it would be utterly impossible for him to longer serve in such capacity. As he had enjoyed his work for the Red Cross it would be with real regret that he would say "good-bye" as the chairman, but in so doing he wished to assure the chapter that at any and all times he would do all in his power to be of continued service.

Mrs. William McBride of the American Legion Auxiliary, told of the doll bazar to be held by the auxiliary the first week in December, as the means of raising funds for the auxiliary work and as a way of helping make Chrisimas gifts for busy people. She asked the women of the Red Cross to assist in this effort by dressing and giving dolls of any sort, and her request was recognized by the meeting as one worthy of the consideration of the Red Cross women of the county.

Executive Committee Elected.

Judge Hasbrouck, chairman of the nominating committee reported the following nominations for the executive committee and the report being accepted, these persons compose that committee:

Martin Cantine, Saugerties; Frank Coykendall, Mrs. M. B. Downer, Woodstock; R. M. Rownd, Milton; Miss Florence Woolsey, Milton; John D. Schoonmaker, Mrs. T. J. Hickey, E. E. Ougheltree, Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck, Judge G. D. B Hasbrouck, Mrs. C. Gordon Reel, the Rev. J. B. Scully, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, Judge James Jenkins, Judge Joseph M. Fowler, Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Morris Block, Mrs. C. N. Reed, Mrs. C. E. Hasbrouck, Mrs. Charles Tappen, Mrs. Thomas Hayes, Mrs. O. B. Saare, Ellenville; Harcourt Pratt, Highland; the Hon. Frank LeFevre, New Paltz; Sylvanus Van Aken, Port Ewen; Mrs. C. V. Hasbrouck, Rosendale; Dr. M. J. Michael, the Hon. Jacob Rice, Ralph Cohen, Herbert Carl, Vincent A. Gorman, the Rev. Martin O'Gara, the Rev. R. A. Greenwell, the Rev. Francis O'Reilly, Rosendale.

The executive committee also asked the privilege of adding to its numbers representatives from some of the nearby towns interested in Red Cross work, whose names will be published later.

Appreciation of Mr. Cantine.

In giving his report, Judge Hasbrouck said that he had been impressed with what the chairman had said that it would be utterly impossible for him to continue in his present official capacity, and counted that fact a serious loss to the officers, executive members and general membership of the Ulster County Chapter as he had given such complete satisfaction to all throughout the county. He had kept active this local Chapter of the Red Cross during these, its lean times, by his broad-mindedness, his philanthropic spirit. Judge Hasbrouck expressed his appreciation of and gratitude for the wonderful service rendered by Mr. Cantine; at the same time that he felt it was not for those present to further press the office upon him, but rather to go on record as giving their feeble note of appreciation for the society and the community. On motion of Mayor Block, Judge Hasbrouck's remarks given as a resolution of that appreciation to Mr. Cantine.

In accepting esolution, Mr. Cantine in retiri.. thanked all who had assisted in making his administration as effective as it had been. No matter how difficult the task, even that of raising money, someone had always been found ready to serve and serve successfully. Mr. Cantine extended his best wishes to the new officers about to be elected and again assured them of his continued support.

Officers Elected.

On motion of Mr. Ougheltree, Mr. Cantine acted as temporary chairman of the executive committee which elected officers for the ensuing year, as follows:

Chairman, Frank Coykendall; vice-chairmen, Mayor Morris Block, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Mrs. M. B. Downer of Woodstock; treasurer, E. E. Ougheltree; executive secretary, Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck. Chairmen of the standing committees will be announced later.

In the absence of the new chairman to call the meeting, on motion of Mr. DeWitt, a special meeting of the executive committee will be held on Monday evening, October 27, at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A., to prepare working plans for and to elect the chairman of the approaching Red Cross roll call which will begin on Armistice Day.

Winder That Will Save Much Labor

Handy Device Can Be Built by Amateurs Who Make Many Radio Coils.

By L. B. ROBBINS

A winder is a necessity for the radio experimenter who makes many coils. The one illustrated at the top of the accompanying illustration can be made easily by the amateur and will save many hours of arduous labor. It is designed primarily to wind plain, cylindrical coils, but three attachments can be made by which basket, spider and honeycomb coils may be wound.

The base is a board about 6 by 18 inches with a 5-inch upright at each end. A deep groove in the top of each upright acts as a bearing for the shaft. Caps over each bearing hold the shaft in while operating, but can be swung aside to allow the shaft to be taken out when desired.

The shaft is of ½-inch-square iron or steel rounded at each end. One end should be threaded and furnished with two locknuts for a crank.

Two wooden cones, as illustrated, serve as the coil-mounting holders. They are made of wooden disks connected by thin slats. The large end is 4½ inches in diameter and the small end 2½ inches in diameter. One should be fixed permanently to the shaft; the other has a hub block with a setscrew to allow adjustments.

A cylinder is placed in position by removing this cone, lifting the shaft, slipping the cylinder in place, and then replacing the shaft and pushing the two cones together.

Attachment A is for winding basket coils. It is a disk 5 inches in diameter, with 24 nails evenly spaced in a 4-inch circle and 20 nails in a 3-inch circle. The larger winds the stator coil and the smaller the rotor. The nails must be removed after winding. This fixture is placed on the shaft in place of a cone and is held by a setscrew.

Attachment B is a similar disk with four screws near the rim for fastening down the spider form. The setscrew block should be on the opposite side.

For winding honeycomb coils use a wooden cylinder, C, 4 inches long and 2 inches in diameter. Drive two rows of 19 nails each round the circumference, parallel with each other and ⅞ inch apart. A hole then should be drilled through the exact center and a retaining screw and block fastened to one end.—Popular Science Monthly.

Simple Rack Will Hold Your Supply of Tubes

In the illustration are shown two different types of racks for holding spare vacuum tubes. Figure 1 is designed to take the 201A type of tube, while Figure 3 is for the smaller tubes. Figure 4 gives a method for placing the rack against the wall if desired, and Figure 2 is a perspective view of the finished product.

One of the simplest methods of assembling this rack is as follows: Drill three 1⅛-inch holes in a board 2½ inches wide, 7½ inches long and ⅜ inch thick. Around each of these holes glue narrow pieces of felt. The side supports should be 2½ inches wide, ⅜ inch thick and about 2½ inches high. The base can be made a little larger than the top piece and the edge finished off as shown. A piece of green felt may be glued to the base of the rack after a good finish has been given to the wood.

Experimenters Should Have Rack for Spare Audions.

Early American Theatricals

The first company organized in America for the presentation of drama was formed in Philadelphia in 1749. The first permanent playhouse was built there in 1766. A portion of its walls still stands.

Cedars of Lebanon of Wonderful Beauty

The famous cedars of Lebanon, which are so frequently mentioned in the Bible as symbols of power, longevity and prosperity, and continuously sung by poets and extolled by artists because of their stately beauty and strength, grow to a height of from 60 to 80 feet, their branches and foliage covering a compass of ground the diameter of which equals the height of the trees.

Although the number of the famous trees has decreased considerably, of late years they have been carefully tended and preserved and a goodly number still exist. The best-known group in the Lebanon range consists of a group of 12 ancient giants—how ancient no man can tell—in a grove near the village of Eden, surrounded by about 400 younger trees, none of which probably are under a hundred years of age. Two of the "patriarchs" of the celebrated group measure, respectively, from 60 to 80 feet in girth of trunk. One of these is marked with the name of Lamartine, the French poet, historian and statesman. The younger trees in the grove are stately, compact and gracefully reposeful, but the "patriarchs" are wild of aspect and frantic in attitude, flinging their muscular arms about as though struggling with some unseen enemy. In Ezekiel the Assyrian is likened to the cedar of Lebanon, "with fair branches, and with a shadowing shroud, and of a high stature, and his top was in among the thick boughs."

Unfair to Blame Sun for Showing Up Dust

Here is a reader who actually grumbles at the sun!

"I've noticed," she says, "that whenever the sun shines in a room it seems to raise the dust. Now, why is this? Look into any shaft of sunlight and you will see what I mean."

The sun does not raise dust, though my correspondent is not the first person who has thought so. It merely illuminates dust particles which, in lesser light, are not so observable, says London Answers. The dust is always there, floating about; the sun must not be blamed for it.

Why, to blame the sun for the dust is as unreasonable as it would be to blame a pair of opera glasses for the bad actor one looked at through them! Would the bad actor have been raised by the opera glasses?

The sun, of course, is a sort of bete noir to some people, but, all the same, a room flooded with sunlight is much more pleasant than one from which it is rigorously excluded.

Seniority of Sweden

The kingdom of Sweden, which was founded about the year 700 A. D., is the oldest in Europe. It is still a primitive land—half the country is forest and the national population is less than that of London. The people are among the greatest sportsmen in the world, water and ice sports, of course, predominating. For sailing and rowing, Sweden is the first country in Europe, and naturally leads in its ice sports. Though a large part of Sweden lies within the Arctic circle, so clear are the skies that the heart of Lapland enjoys more hours of sunshine than Rome or Madrid. Incidentally, Sweden is the oldest part of Europe geologically. It was dry land when most of the remainder of the continent was under water.

Quick to Learn

A couple of years ago Ted Winkley was an enthusiastic graduate from the school of journalism at a western university. He bought a country weekly and settled down to reform the county. The first issue of the paper brought out under his control flamed with promising announcements. The dean of the school of journalism received a copy and read this editorial announcement:

"We aim to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

Nearly a year later the dean received another copy of the boy's paper, with this proclamation circled with blue pencil:

"We aim to tell the truth—but not so blamed much of it as heretofore!" —Harper's Magazine.

Alexandrian Pharos

Pharos was the name of an island in the harbor of Alexandria. Here Ptolemy I, who had been one of the generals of Alexander the Great, decided to build a gigantic lighthouse. The work was finally completed during the reign of Ptolemy Philadelphus. The structure was 450 feet high and 100 feet square at the base. At the summit was kept a beacon fire which, according to the historian, Josephus, could be seen over forty miles away. Part of this famous lighthouse was blown down in the Eighth century. The ruin was completed by earthquakes in 1303 and 1946.

How Should Water Taste?

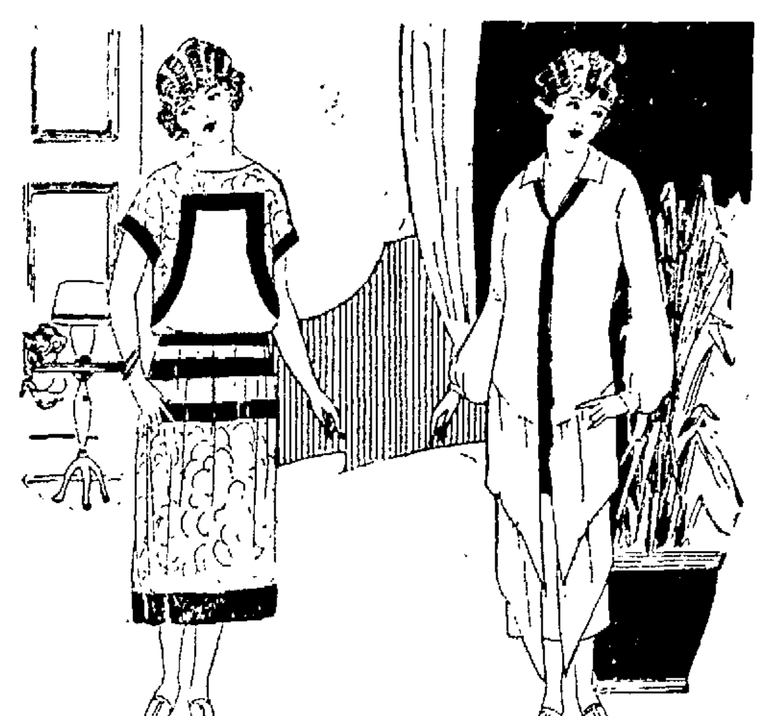
Although the palatability of water is largely a matter of individual taste, there are objectionable tastes in water that can be ascribed definitely to either chemicals such as iron, chlorine or an alkali, decaying vegetation, microscopical organism or pollution by trade wastes, etc. When tanks or reservoirs become contaminated from any of these causes the cheapest and easiest way is to clean out the container and start with a new supply, though copper sulphate or chlorine properly used are very effective in controlling organisms in such reservoirs.

When Men Wore Lace

The lace gentlemen wore for ruffles in the Seventeenth century was costly for those days. Valenciennes lace, about three inches wide, which was then in great demand, sold for about $11 a yard in 1788.

"INDIVIDUALITY OF DRESS"

Adding Inches To Your Height Is A Simple Matter of Dressing



If you'd like to add an inch or so to your height, and, incidentally, take a few from the apparent size of your waistline, don't think you need a magician's wand to accomplish that fact. An uneven hem, whether pointed, scalloped or rippled, will trick folks' eyes into thinking you possess some of that extra height you desire.

$5,000 Fire Loss At Highland

A large barn and part of an adjoining greenhouse on the Clintondale road three-quarters of a mile from Highland, owned by Conrad Ley, were destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning with a loss estimated at about $5,000. The Highland Hose Company answered the alarm and through their efficient work the other greenhouses and buildings were saved. No insurance was carried as far as can be learned.

Investigation by the fire officials disclosed the fact that the fire originated from a short circuit in the wiring of a truck that was stored in the barn along with another truck and a large touring car. The three autos were destroyed as was a quantity of furniture stored in the barn and many tons of hay in the mows.

The greenhouses are operated by Mr. Ley in connection with his florist business and the barn was used as a storehouse for the tools and crops of the farm. It is thought probable that the fire, originating in the truck spread first to the wooden floor and from there spread further.

Doheny's Wife Produces Note

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Oct. 23.—The missing portion of the famous $100,000 Doheny-Fall note which featured in the senatorial inquiry in the leasing of navy oil reservelands was produced today in the court of Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick, who is trying a government suit in attempt to cancel leases granted to E. L. Doheny on the Elk Hills reserve.

The appearance of the missing document came as a dramatic blow to the attorneys, especially engaged by President Coolidge to conduct the investigation of reserve lands.

Atlee Pomerene, heading the government legal staff, called Mrs. E. L. Doheny, wife of the petroleum magnate, to the witness stand. It was his purpose to question her regarding the "black bag" transaction in which Former Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall was given $100,000 in cash by her husband.

League in Need Of Baby Clothing

Now that the first cold autumn days have come, many children in Kingston are in need of warm clothing and the Junior League baby nurse is asking for such articles. The league furnishes layettes for needy babies which the members make at their weekly meetings, but there are many other articles for babies and children of pre-school age that can be used by the nurse not included in the layettes, such as warm sweaters, shirts, bands, stockings, dresses, etc., in fact anything worn by children under five can be used to advantage. Such articles may be sent to Mrs. Doris Hasbrouck Fogg, 18 Livingston street, or she may be called on the telephone and asked to stop for them. Her telephone call is Kingston 130-M.

Defendants to Be Examined

Youths Indicted In Supreme Court Plead Not Guilty and a Mental Examination Is Ordered—Supreme Court Into Recess Until October 30.

Three defendants were arraigned in the Supreme court Wednesday afternoon and all three entered pleas of not guilty to the crimes as charged in the indictments which were handed up by the grand jury at that time. Judge Hasbrouck after questioning the three defendants, all young men, asked that they be examined as to their physical and mental condition. This examination will be made before the clinic, which meets at the court house on Friday.

Elmore Bellows, charged by the grand jury with the crime of grand larceny, second degree, was arrested some time ago on a charge of passing a check in payment for an automobile, which was drawn upon a bank where he has no funds. Bellows is 20 years old and was born at Margaretville. Last summer he purchased an automobile from H. Winfield Misner of Pine Hill and gave in payment a check which proved to be of no value. Under the law this constitutes a fraud defined as grand larceny. At first Bellows said he wanted to plead guilty but after being instructed by the court he changed his plea to not guilty and Judge Hasbrouck asked that he be examined as to his physical condition with a view of giving him any benefit which such an examination might bring to light. His case was transferred to county court.

Vernon and Abner Schoonmaker, who were charged by the grand jury with burglary in the third degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of Marlborough, both entered pleas of not guilty. The boys are 16 and 18 years of age. Frank W. Brooks was requested to represent the boys and see that an examination was made and that they were given a chance. He was not assigned as counsel in case of trial. The boys were indicted in two separate cases on the same charge. Their cases were also ordered sent to county court.

Fourteen sealed indictments were handed up and ordered transferred to county court.

Court then went into recess until October 30 at 10 o'clock. Lawyers who desire to set down cases for trial by the court between October 30 and November 10 may do so on the adjourned date.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 23.—Mixed movements in stock prices characterized the stock market today.

The oil stocks were uniformly strong and active throughout the whole session. Railroad stocks advanced to higher levels in the early trading, although as a rule they were unable to hold their gains.

Uneasiness in a few important industries, such as textiles, sugar and, to a smaller extent, the independent steel companies' business, was reflected in the heavy sale of stocks of representative companies, with consequent declines in prices.

Pacific Oil led the independents with a rise of 1⅛ to 52, but a dozen or more of the popular independent issues reached new high levels on the present movement.

The drop in sugar stocks, in which American Sugar recorded a new low of the year at 37¼ and Cuba Cane Sugar preferred sold down to 53⅞, was accompanied by rumors that sugar prices were due for a decline. The drive against American Woolen, which netted the bears 3¾ points, was helped along by rumors shrinkage of inventory value would entail considerable loss by the company.

Favorable industrial and business reports were without apparent effect on the stock market. Railroad stocks were active and strong in the early trading, but buying in the rails was not extended as in other departments of the market.

Maxwell Motors A and B stock took the lead in the motor group both selling at new high prices for 1924, the former at 64½ up 2½, and the latter at 20¼.

The mercantile stocks led a moderate upward movement in the fourth hour, Woolworth gaining 2 points at 109½; Sears Roebuck and Associated Dry Goods fractionally higher, and G. R. Kinney up 1½ at 79¼. Recoveries in the sugar, and textile stocks, and in Bethlehem Steel, which sold up from 37¾ to 39½, were also features of this period.

Beacon School for Boys Burned

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Beacon, N. Y., Oct. 23.—St. Mary's school for boys, one of the oldest institutions of its kind in this part of the state is in ruins today as a result of a fire which destroyed the building early last evening.

The blaze, which started in the attic is believed to have been caused by electric wires.

One hundred boys who were attending the school quickly formed a bucket brigade and fought the flames. They were assisted later by members of the Beacon fire department but efforts to save the school proved futile.

The school is located on the ground of the old Burman estate.

Woman Worth A Dozen Men

General Dawes Expresses Value He Places On Women in This Campaign—Believes West Safe For Coolidge.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Enroute to Wilmington, Delaware, with General Dawes, Oct. 23.—For the first time since the start of the campaign, General Charles G. Dawes, the Republican candidate for vice-president, indicated today that he believed the west was definitely safe for President Coolidge.

"You wait," he told audiences today, "until you hear the returns from the great western country. I am not afraid of the west. There is no radicalism ou there—at least, not the kind you find in the east side of New York or Dest Madison street, Chicago.

"Any one active woman in this campaign is worth a dozen men," he added.

Members of his party were pleased today at the reception given the nominee last night at the Fair Grounds in Wheeling, West Virginia.

The general recognized the delegation from his birthplace, Marietta, Ohio, and talked to its members from the speakers' stand.

"I thought at first," he said, looking at familiar faces, "that you had the band with you. I was looking to see if there were any of the old timers with it when I was a member and played the piccolo. I guess they're all gone now.

Goldstein Gets $25,000 Offer.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 23.—A purse of $25,000 will be offered Abe Goldstein today to defend his bantamweight title against Frankie Genaro at Madison Square Garden before the first of the year. The offer will be made by Frank Costello, friend and admirer of Genaro. Costello's proposition names Tex Rickard as the promoter of the proposed bout, and it is understood that Rickard has signified his willingness to accept the conditions as laid down.

GOOD ROADS

MOTOR USERS MUST PAY FOR HIGHWAYS

By ROY D. CHAPIN

(Chairman Highways Committee, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.)

Working steadily ahead on a program which, because of its immensity, showed but few results at the outset, the highway engineers of the United States have finally carried their task forward to a point at which the public can obtain a visual demonstration of results in every state.

At the end of 1918 there were 12.5 miles of completed federal aid projects in the country. Since then projects amounting to 29,772 miles have been completed, 15,318 miles are under construction and 6,000 miles more have been approved for construction.

Virtually all of this work has been done on those main highways which constitute the selected federal-aid system of 7 per cent of the highways of the country, and yet the funds so expended from both federal and state sources are less than one-half of annual expenditures made for rural highway purposes. The other funds have been expended, first, under state jurisdiction on the secondary roads, and, second, under county and local supervision on the county and purely local roads.

The net result is that as we swing into 1924 there are approximately 430,000 miles of highways in the United States on which there has been some degree of improvement, from those of sand clay up to the heaviest and most durable roads known to modern engineering. The total mileage of all types of roads in the country is 2,941,294.

This achievement, which gives us a mileage of improved roads almost four times as great as all of the roads in the United Kingdom, has been attained only just in time to take care of the swelling army of motorcar drivers, and it will only be by a continuation of the present program for the next ten years that we can finally arrive at a completed system somewhat nearly approximating the needs of highway traffic.

The principal problem which at once becomes evident to the student of highway transport is that of how an undertaking of this size is to be financed, requiring as it does and will for a decade an annual appropriation of at least $1,000,000,000 from national, state and local sources.

The answer has been obtained, in part at least, through conferences which have been held among officials of the American Association of State Highway Officials, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the Investment Bankers of America and the bureau of public roads.

Repeated conferences based upon actual investigations have finally resulted in an agreement upon 15 points, which, it is believed by all that were party to them, will give the nation a sound platform for highway finance.

The chief points so disclosed were that all that benefit from highway construction should join in paying for them, that maintenance of the interstate and state systems is justifiably chargeable against the motor user, that highway expenditures should be based upon budgets, and should not be out of line with other public needs, and finally that, depending upon the comparative stage of the highway program, long-term bond issues should be voted to provide for immediate construction of the principal systems which must inevitably cost the public less to build and maintain than to go without.

Interesting Records

The Pennsylvania department of highways has unearthed a traffic record kept by one of the old toll-gate keepers on the Lincoln highway between Fort Loudon and McConnellsburg in 1830 and 1834.

The record is extremely interesting and indicates that more vehicles now pass over the Lincoln highway in one week than in the entire year 1830.

Good Road Notes

Good roads are the farmers' best friend.

The Indiana highway commission has ordered "stop" signs erected at all points where crossroads intersect the Lincoln highway between Valparaiso and the Illinois state line.

* * *

Good roads take the farmer to the city and bring the city dweller out into the country. From this contact comes better acquaintance and a clearer understanding of the problems and needs of each.

* * *

Let a highway be used enough nowadays, and automatically it becomes an oiled road.

To tour the British Isles thoroughly by automobile over their full length of highways would take 1,773 days' traveling at 100 miles a day.

The Automobile club of Arizona thus far has signed more than 1,600 miles of roads within the state. This summer will be signed the new road from Globe to Flagstaff and then the road from Rice to Springerville.

Greatness Is Not to Be Gauged by Stature

Lombroso in his "Men of Genius" says that greatness and stature are rarely found together. In consulting biographies of a number of great men in American history, however, it has been found that this statement does not always apply. There have been on the whole more prominent men above middle height than below, says the Denver News. Among the short men may be numbered John Quincy Adams, Admiral Farragut, Paul Jones, Gen. Phil Sheridan, Stephen A. Douglas, William H. Seward and Martin Van Buren. On the other hand we find that Charles Sumner was 6 feet 4 inches; Thomas Jefferson, 6 feet 2½ inches; Charley Godfrey Leland, 6 feet 2½ inches; Andrew Jackson, 6 feet 1 inch; Samuel Adams, Salmon P. Chase and Jonathan Edwards described as "over 6 feet"; James Monroe, 6 feet or more; Bayard Taylor, 6 feet at the age of seventeen; George Washington, 6 feet. Henry Ward Beecher, Rufus Choate, Benjamin Franklin were slightly under 6 feet. Daniel Webster and Patrick Henry were about 5 feet 10.

Vacationist Had Real Problem on His Hands

A revival of this old yarn, once a favorite of George Roby's, is not amiss: It was all about a man who arrived at a seaside resort and went to a hotel. Shortly after a friend called and was shown up to his room.

He found him sitting in a chair surveying with a gloomy countenance a trunk which stood against the wall.

"What's the matter?" asked the caller.

"I want to get a suit of clothes out of that trunk," was the answer.

"Well, what's the difficulty—lost the key?"

"No, I have the key all right," he said, heaving a sigh. "I'll tell you how it is. My wife packed that trunk. She expected to come with me, but was prevented. To my certain knowledge she put in enough to fill three trunks the way a man would pack them. If I open it, the things will boil up all over the room. I could never get them back. Now I'm wondering whether it would be cheaper to go and buy a new suit of clothes or two more trunks."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Economic Philosophy

Wherever Dickens is read this advice by Mr. Micawber stands out as the acme of economic common sense:

"Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure nineteen, ninteen, six; result happiness. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure twenty pounds, ought and six; result misery."

Likewise Josh Billings gives expression to not quite so nearly universal a truth when he tells us:

"Debt is a trap, which a man sets and baits himself, and then deliberately gets into—and ketches a kursid phool."

Artemus Ward made his reputation as an economist and a humorist on his statement:

"I'm bound to live within my means if I have to borrow money to do it."—C. W. C., in McNaught's Monthly.

Do Ducks Swim With Wings?

Do ducks use their wings while swimming under water? The question is discussed frequently among sportsmen and nature students, and opinions sometimes differ. Testimony of reliable authorities supports the belief that various species of ducks and grebes, loons and other diving birds do not use their wings when swimming beneath the surface for food or in trying to escape capture, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A ruddy duck was observed on Lake Michigan not long ago feeding in 15 or 20 feet of clear water. As it got well started on its downward plunge, the wings, about two-thirds extended, were used in quick, short strokes, at the rate of about one a second, to assist in propelling it and in rising to the top as well.

Catherine Rush

Medical annals have seldom recorded so rare a case of longevity as that of Catherine Rush, who died in Philadelphia on May 1, 1817, at the age of one hundred and eleven years and eleven months. So far is is known Catherine Rush had lived on the outskirts of Philadelphia all her life, and no one was particularly interested in her until she reached the age of one hundred, having been a very frail girl. When she passed the one-hundred-year mark physicians began to watch her. They kept up their watching for nearly twelve years. It was Catherine Rush's greatest desire, when she felt the end coming, to round out one hundred and twelve years. She failed of it by one month.—Chicago Journal.

Morgenweckers Beat Trenton

Kingston's Latest Combination Defeated Tome's Contingent By a 18 to 15 Tally—Closing Minutes Exciting—Carl Husta High Scorer.

Morris Tome's Trenton quintet of the Metropolitan League looked considerably inferior to the Kingston combination of the proposed Hudson River League Wednesday evening in the local armory cage, when for the first fifteen minutes of the struggle, they failed to register either from the floor or the correction line. During this scoreless period for the Jerseyites, the Morgenweck tribe registered from the floor four times. In the eyes of the wise, this session of inactivity could not continue, and it didn't. The final score was in favor of the home team, 18 to 15.

As the score indicates the visitors had a reversal of form in contrast to the early minutes. The change didn't happen in the opening stanza, as the score at the conclusion of that game space was in favor of the locals 10 to 3.

A Unique Affair.

That there was no free abandon of shooting during either period is also indicated by the ultimate score. Seven points, garnered by Carl Husta, is further proof of the close guarding and to some extent the poor shooting during the contest. Morris Tome was second best for the scoring honors, his total for the evening's frolic being five. Unique, as they saw at the breweres' barbecue, describes the evening's amusement. Eighteen fouls in the aggregate, most astounding but nevertheless true, was the actual number called during the entire game. Time was recent in basketball society, when three times this number was called by the martinets. The eleventh man in the den on this single occasion was none other than Jesse Messer a court general of yesteryear. Although the fouls were few, it is no indication that the game was entirely free from roughness. Nevertheless an enjoyable time was had by all the scorers present and the timekeeper and secondly the customers seemed pleased with real basketball, rather than lessons in discipline.

Foul Shooting Poor.

Honors, if any, for shooting baskets, were not achieved from the fifteen line as only five of the total were caged. Trenton, the greatest offender, was penalized ten times, which netted the local representatives two markers. Eight fouls were called on Kingston and the losers registered three times. The Jersey team's fouls counted for one in the opening frame and the remainder two in the night-cap. Both of the fouls shot by the Morgenweck clan came in the closing half.

Locals Use Seven Players.

The first of the several combinations on Wednesday evening's pay roll, which is checked by Morgenweck, seemed to work to the best advantage. Whether this was due to the earliness of the evening or the backwardness of Tome and his company, neither of which is likely, is not known. Starting the struggle the Husta brothers were up in front, with Miller at center, and Artus and Charlie Powers in the backfield. Although the season is not yet under way, Powers has displayed his wares, etc., with several teams. In the second period, Powers jumped center for a time, when Sime got into the game playing a forward position, M. Husta going into a guard position and Miller being derricked. That Sime went into the fracas was by no means a fool move. While in the struggle and at a time when baskets from the floor or any other place were few and far between, the newcomer dropped in two, which purchased the bacon for the locals. In the final minutes of play, McDermott was in the center position.

The First Half.

Close guarding, poor shooting and a few bad breaks accounted for the low scoring for the visiting team. Not until fifteen minutes was played without a rest period, did Tome's outfit score a point. At this time Red Kearns shot one from the floor. Glasco followed with a point from the chalk line, the total points for that half.

C. Husta was the first to get into the scoring columns, caging a pretty one from long distance. He succeeded himself for this honor by soon afterwards doing a like stunt. Miller also made two fields during this period. Charlie Powers was not to go scoreless, so buried one from the playground. The work of Miller in this contest was a decided improvement over his previous showing here. That the boy is a comer is the opinion of not a few.

The Closing Period.

With a seven point advantage, the local quintet saw several changes during this session. Everything went along smoothly, that is for the leaders, until the closing minutes, when Morris Tome led his combination in a rally that nearly swept from the court the Morgenweckers. Two field baskets by Tome, followed by one from Glasco. Tettermer and Saunders put the visitors one point behind, score 16 to 15. With only a few minutes remaining, the home team proceeded to kill time, until Sime did the trick of caging a pretty shot. The few closing minutes of the contest was a real thriller and the work of Sime, entitles him to another chance to make the team of the proposed Hudson River League.

The usual dancing followed the contest, which was enjoyed by a great many. The game was a few minutes late in getting started, but dancers were given a treat, as the contest was not marred by verbal battles.

Original Celtics To Play Here

Champion Shamrock Quintet Will Battle With Kingston Here Next Wednesday—Brilliant Players In Celtic Line-up.

At Wednesday evening's game at the armory it was announced that the Original Celtics, claimants of the world's championship in professional basketball will appear at the armory court next Wednesday opposing the Kingston team in an exhibition game. Players composing the Shamrock Five are known to local fandom, as they have appeared at the local court several times in past seasons. It was the pleasure two years ago of a record crowd witnessing the defeat of the Furey tribe, at the hands of the Kingston team. Last season the Kingston quintet was unable to win over the Shamrock wearers.

The Celtic basketball team is said to be the most popular traveling outfit in the game. In large western cities crowds of over ten thousand attend Celtic games. Heading the champion Shamrock team is Johnny Beckman, known as the "Babe Ruth" of basketball. Beckman has been in the game a long time and Kingston was the place where he first came into the limelight. Other brilliant players are Chris Leonard and Pete Barry. The game's trickiest performer, Nat Holman, and Joe Lopchick are also members of the team.

Tickets for this game can be had at the armory at any time. Holders of reserved seat tickets will be given the preference.

THURSTON ONE OF SOX BEST "FINDS"

Considered Star Pitcher of American League.

Efforts on the part of President C. A. Comiskey of the White Sox, to obtain star outfield talent from the minor leagues, recalls to mind that Hollis Thurston, right-hand pitcher for the Sox, played the outfield, himself, not so long ago and did a good job of it. Just at present Thurston holds the distinction of being one of the best pitchers in the American league.

But Thurston might never have been a pitcher if a California semipro manager hadn't faced the problem of going into an important sandlot game without a dependable mound man one afternoon, two years ago. Then Thurston crossed his path and the manager had an idea. The youngster had played a great outfield, was a wonder with the bat and had a strong arm.

Thurston was told if he would go in and pitch, he would receive $100 for his work if he could beat the other club. Thurston pitched his first game on the mound but he didn't win. He went right down the old stretch to the ninth with the score 1 to 0. Then an infielder kicked one behind him and the game was lost to Thurston's team. Thurston as an outfielder was through. Thurston as a pitcher was just beginning and it wasn't long before a scout for the St. Louis Browns saw him and Owner Ball paid a big price for the youth who could pitch, hit and play the outfield.

Thurston is a glutton for work and when he failed to get as much of it as he thought necessary, under Lee Fohl's management, he consigned Lee to the fiery place one afternoon and waivers were asked on the native son. That is how the Sox happened to get him.

While Thurston appears to be a great young pitcher, either starting or relieving games, his hitting seems to stand out. He doesn't stop at mere singles, but intersperses the base knocks with doubles and triples.

Ruth's Hand Injured.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dunsmuir, Cal., Oct. 23.—Babe Ruth's hand, injured here when he caught it in a fish hook, was reported only slightly hurt when the babe left today for the south to continue his exhibition baseball games. Ruth participated in a game following the injury and denial was made that he had been seriously injured.

Best Harvard Team Since War

Says Bob Fischer, Who Tells About His All Playing Eleven's Greatness—Fears Dartmouth—Cheek, a Ball-running Quarterback.

By Davis J. Walsh.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23.—The golden days of Harvard's greatness, the days of Mahan, Brickley, Hardwick, et al, when a trick was a tragedy and a defeat not to be tolerated are to be exhumed and made to live again by the 1924 football team in the fond expectation of all who are in touch with gridiron affairs at the stadium. Harvard's guns are cocked, primed and loaded. It really believes that it has the greatest team since the late unpleasantness in Europe.

No stars, understand. Just eleven men playing football for sixty minutes of the hour and eleven more to take their places in case they don't. That, we are given to understand, is quite a departure from the activities, if any, of some of the young men who played football at Harvard last season.

"I wouldn't say my men failed to give their best last year," Bob Fisher told the writer today. "But they were certain of their places and their attitude was psychological. There is none of that this year. In fact, I think I have the best Harvard team since the war and that's quite something.

"The other day, Nash, a regular tackle, was hurt. He returned to the squad several days later and is just as good a player as he always was. Yet Nash is now on my second team. Lindner, the man who filled in for him, has done so well that I can't afford to take him out. Cody is another tackle who has come on so fast that I don't see how I can keep him off the team. Yet I can't fire Greenough, my captain, to give him a place."

But it seems that forwards are not the only Harvard superfluity. In Cheek, Miller, Gherke and Hammond, it has four backs who can kick, run and pass almost equally well and there you have another Harvard novelty. A ball-running quarterback hasn't been seen on a stadium team during the modern era. Cheek is the young man.

"We decided to abandon the non-running quarterback the minute we saw Cheek in action" Fisher declared. "We now have eleven men playing football, instead of ten men and a pilot. Cheek is an honor man in his classes, knows football thoroughly and is robust enough to take the pounding when he runs with the ball and still think clearly on the following play."

This is the only Harvard novelty with the exception of the fact that their sleight-of-hand backfield manoeuvers, now used by Notre Dame, are no more at Cambridge.

"They won't do except against a dumb defense" was Fisher's succinct way of putting it.

Otherwise, he is using the same system of offense with plays run from an unbalanced line, of which Bradford, 1923 substitute and Daley, former Andover captain, are integral parts. They have been made into a fine pair of guards and in case either or both should flop, Kilgour, Daniel, Laimbeer and Theopold are within range of Fisher's mellow barytone.

The ends are a bit to the falsetto, thanks to the fact that Jim Combs was declared ineligible. Chase, a 1923 substitute, and Robb, a track team sprinter, look fairly good but not too much better than Dean, Baldwin and Hitch, a 180 pounder.

You hear much of Cherke, a 1922 star, who has returned to the backfield; of Hammond, whom Fisher thinks is the best punter in football. But the hot tip is to watch Miller, a 200 pounder and extremely fast. He is expected to run amuck in the big games to come.

"What team do you fear most?" the writer asked Fisher.

"Dartmouth" was the reply. "I understand the green is absolutely set to beat us. But time will tell that story."

IRISH-AMERICANS WON FROM CHRYSLER FIVE.

The Irish-Americans now representing High Falls, defeated the strong Chrysler five by the score of 40-32 Tuesday evening at High Falls.

The stars of the game were Clarke and Kelly for the Irish-Americans, while Vogt and Stock, members of last year's high school varsity, starred for the Chryslers.

Games are held every Tuesday evening, with dancing following. Music by the Hollywood orchestra.
